SECRETARY HAY PASSES AWAY

Statesman Succumbs at His New Hampshire Summer Home.

THE END IS SUDDEN

Long and Brilliant Career of Cabinet Officer Comes to a Close.

ILLNESS WAS NOT ALARMING

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEWBURY, N. H., July 1.—Secretary of State John Hay died at 12:25 this morning. The signs immediately preceding his death were those of pulmonary embolism. Mr. Hay's condition during all of Friday had been entirely satisfactory.

The bulletin of Secretary Hay's death was signed by Charles L. Scudder, M. D., and Fred T. Murphy, M. D.

Mrs. Hay and Drs. Scudder and Murphy were at the secretary's bedside when the end came. The secretary bade good night to his wife and to his attending physicians about 10 o'clock last night at the close of one of the best days he has had since his illness. The local trouble was clearing up satisfactorily, according to Dr. Scudder.

The secretary suffered none of the old pains in his chest which characterized his earlier illness. He had been perfectly comfortable all day, and happy in the anticipation of leaving his bed for the greater freedom and comfort of a couch.

At 11 o'clock he was sleeping quietly. A few minutes after 12 he called the nurse, who at once summoned Dr. Scudder. Both Dr. Scudder and Dr. Murphy hastened to the bedside. The secretary was breathing with difficulty, and expired almost immediately afterward, at 12:25.

Had Been Ill for Months.

For months there had been contradictory statements as to the condition of Secretary Hay's health, and yesterday even the secretary himself sent the following cablegram to Prof. Groedel at Bad Nauheim, who had treated him while abroad: "Cystitis improving. Nothing complex. Thanks."

John Hay was born in Indiana, October 8, 1838. He was the third son of Charles and Helen Leonard Hay. He was educated at Brown university, Rhode Island, and received degrees from Princeton, Western Reserve, Dartmouth, Yale and Harvard universities. After a remarkably successful career he soon rose to the supreme bench of Illinois.

During his career he was secretary to President Lincoln, was adjutant general of the United States army and colonel by brevet. He served as secretary of the Paris and Madrid legations and held foreign posts of distinction. He then became first assistant secretary of state, and then, in 1897 and 1898, he was American ambassador to England, and later in 1898 was made secretary of state.

Mrs. John Hay.

In 1874 he married Amasa Stone of Ohio.

His Literary Career.

He was given to verses, had the personal attractiveness as well as the youth of Byron; was what Byron might have been, grounded on good principles and with the wholesome discipline of home. Those admitted to his confidence recall the Rosetti-like verses on vital themes with which the young secretary sought to dissipate the war gloom in which he lived.

It was in truth the wild year of the change of things. Hay came in the path of the secession storm then working its cruel will. Taney was on the supreme bench, in the obscuration of Dred Scott and other clouds from which his high merit as a jurist is even now but slowly emerging. As the young secretary, with keen, wondering eyes, looked down upon the senate, he saw but a fragment of that august tribunal. The seats of the Confederate chiefs were vacant, and the Republicans reigned over what seemed to be the wreck of the Union. There, grouped around Sumner, were the leaders of the victorious Republic column; Sumner on the outer row of the senate, in the seat now occupied by Senator Wilson of Washington, between John P. Hale and David Wilmot, with Ben Wade and Henry Wilson in front. John Sherman, fresh from the house, and from his unavailing battle for the speakership, was on the Democratic side between James A. Bayard, father of the ambassador, and Andrew Johnson.

Mingled With Statesmen.

In the house the young secretary could have studied the dominant statesmen. There was Galusha A. Grow, on the eve of the speakership; Thaddeus Stevens with his all too apparent wig, lines deepening his Roman face and tightening the implacable lips, an intense remorseless veteran of two generations of strife, in a state of sardonic thanksgiving that he

READ ABOUT THE BATTLE OF MUKDEN

A special war supplement to tomorrow's Sunday Gazette will contain the most graphic story written since the outbreak of the war between Japan and Russia. Francis McCullagh, a special correspondent of the New York Herald, was with the Russians when the terrible battle of Mukden was fought. He was in the thick of the fight, and when a detachment of the Muscovites was captured he was taken along. His story of the fight, with the illustrations, makes over five pages in The Sunday Gazette, and everybody who has followed the course of this gigantic struggle will want to read every line of it. Don't fail to get tomorrow's Gazette and read this most thrilling history.

EIGHTEEN BEEF MEN WILL BE INDICTED

Grand Jury's Net Takes in Armour, Morris, Swift, Cudahy and National Concerns.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, June 30.—Eighteen of the most prominent men and all six of the packing companies in the "beef trust" will be indicted by the federal grand jury which ends its long inquiry tomorrow.

J. Ogden Armour will escape indictment, three other men of his corporation being accused.

The individuals will be indicted under the Sherman anti-trust act, which provides a penitentiary sentence of one year and a fine of $5,000. The corporations will be indicted under the Elkins law, which succeeded the old interstate commerce act, which provides a fine of from $1,000 to $20,000 for every specific offense, the penalty being applicable to every railroad rebate accepted.

The men against whom true bills have already been drawn are:

Armour & Co.—Arthur Meeker, P. A. Valentine and Thomas J. Conners.
Nelson Morris & Co.—Nelson Morris and Edward Morris.
Swift & Co.—Louis F. Swift, Edward C. Swift.
Cudahy & Co.—Edward A. Cudahy, Michael Cudahy.
National Packing Company—Edward Tildren.

The above named ten men are the most active and powerful factors in the "big five." The eight others named in true bills are next in rank to them.

The 18 men will be indicted as individuals and their five companies as corporations, an additional indictment against the Schartzschild & Sulzberger Company charging violation of the Elkins act in receiving railroad rebates.

MORTON FORCES HYDE OUT OF EQUITABLE

Son of Founder Resigns His Chairmanship—Succeeded by Former Secretary of Navy.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 30.—James H. Hyde relinquished today the chairmanship of the executive committee of the Equitable Life, which he has held for five years, and was succeeded in that office by Paul Morton, who will now preside at both the directors' and executive committee's deliberations. This announcement was made after a meeting of the executive committee this afternoon at which two other matters having a direct bearing upon the affairs of the society were made public.

It was said by persons close to the new administration that the resignation of Mr. Hyde from the executive committee was forced by Mr. Morton, who demanded that the last vestige of authority should be taken from the former vice president of the society.

Attorney General Mayer returned to this city from Albany today and resumed the preparation of the cases against James H. Hyde and other directors who were members of the underwriting syndicate. One of Mr. Mayer's callers was Wayne MacVeagh of Philadelphia, representing policy-holders of Pennsylvania. Mr. MacVeagh had a long conference with the attorney general but neither would discuss the subject of their conversation.

It was announced today at the office of Chairman Paul Morton that H. C. Deming had sent his check for $4,576.74 and that Valentine P. Snyder had sent $1,810.52, these amounts representing the share of Mr. Deming and Mr. Snyder in the Hyde syndicate transactions.

MOORS GROW INDEPENDENT, FORESEEING CONFERENCE

May Hold Up Concessions to Germans Until They Know the Result of Meetings Between Powers.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

FEZ, MOROCCO, June 30.—Since it has become known that an international council to consider the subject of Moroccan reform is practically assured, the Moors have been showing considerable less dependence on the Germans.

It is sated the authorities will delay the signing of the concessions for the building of harbors at Tangier and Saida, which were promised to German firms, until after the conference has been held.

PARIS, June 30.—The council of ministers went over the Franco-German negotiations today, and a communication was issued saying they are satisfactorily progressing toward an agreement, but it was added the negotiations have not reached a stage where Premier Rouvier is prepared to give a final acceptance of the suggestion for a conference.

DAUCHY IS IN CHARGE.

Wallace's Assistant is Made Acting Chief Engineer of the Panama Canal—Death Rate Less.

PANAMA, June 30.—W. E. Dauchy, who has been the engineer in charge of the Culebra division of the canal work, has been appointed acting chief engineer. The resignation of Chief Engineer Wallace caused a disagreeable surprise, principally among the employes of the canal commission.

The sanitation of the city is improving, the number of deaths for June being 25 per cent less than that recorded for May, though June is considered the worst month of the whole year.

LINEVITCH AND OYAMA WILL MAKE ARMISTICE

Plenipotentiaries Will Be Announced After the Articles Are Drawn. Nelidoff Declines to Serve.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, June 30.—It is understood here on good authority that negotiations are in progress in Manchuria for an armistice which, it is believed will be drawn up by Gens. Linevitch and Oyama.

The plan is for the plenipotentiaries to be announced after the armistice has been arranged, but should the negotiations for the armistice fail to indicate an early conclusion, the announcement of the plenipotentiaries may be made in the near future.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 30.—It is reported that M. Nelidoff, the Russian ambassador at Paris, has declined to accept the position of peace plenipotentiary and that M. Muravieff, the ambassador of Russia at Rome, will go in his place. There is no confirmation here of a report that Field Marshal Oyama and Gen. Linevitch are arranging an armistice.

JAPANESE RIGHT WING ADVANCES AGGRESSIVELY

The Japanese are slowly pushing forward their center. They are strongly fortifying each village occupied by them, and are making a demonstration of considerable force near Hai-Lung-Cheng, 50 miles east of Chantufu. The operations are proceeding slowly and a general engagement is improbable before the end of July.

ANOTHER SHIP IS IN MUTINY

SURRENDER DENIED

London Advices Contradict the Story That Mutineers Yield to Squadron.

ORDERS TO SINK BATTLESHIP

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

LONDON, July 1.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Odessa, dated early this morning, asserts that the Kniaz Potemkine has not surrendered. The dispatch says:

"It was reported by the authorities that Kniaz Potemkine had surrendered unconditionally, but it is now confirmed that she was joined by the battleship Georgi Pobiedonosetz, whose officers were made prisoners. Both vessels are anchored in the roads and are using searchlights vigorously as if expecting an attack from the squadron, which is about 15 miles distant.

"The commander of the troops has received a telegram from the government ordering him to sink the rebel ships without regard to a possible bombardment.

"I have information regarding this second mutiny on absolutely reliable authority."

The dispatch to the Daily Mail is timed 12:35 o'clock this morning, but nothing was received up to 3 o'clock this morning confirming it. None of the other special dispatches from Odessa published this morning is timed later than 6 o'clock last evening.

ODESSA, June 30.—Without firing a gun or making the slightest show of resistance, the mutineers on the Kniaz Potemkine hauled down the red flag and surrendered the battleship to Vice Admiral Kruger's squadron, which arrived at noon today.

It was an anxious moment for Odessa as the squadron of five battleships and seven torpedo boats, with their crews at quarters and their decks cleared for action, steamed within range of the Kniaz Potemkine, the flagship flying signals, which read: "Yield or be sunk."

The Kniaz Potemkine, which had weighed anchor, started in the direction of Langron point, near Odessa. Everyone expected the immediate opening of an engagement, but instead long interchanges of signals were begun, the mutineers apparently parleying to obtain favorable terms. Finally the battleship stood in closer to the squadron, the vessels of which formed a circle around her. Later the squadron resumed formation and headed out to sea, the Kniaz Potemkine returning to her anchorage, accompanied by the Ekaterina II., which placed a prize crew on board.

The terms of surrender cannot be learned, as boats from the shore were not allowed to approach, but it is thought that the mutineers received promises that the punishment prescribed by the naval rules would be mitigated to some extent. The Ekaterina II. remains in the harbor.

The city is still in a state of feverish anxiety. All the hotels are guarded by troops and further reinforcements have arrived. All reservations on outgoing trains have been taken for days ahead. During a demonstration after the funeral of Sailor Omiltchuk yesterday four persons were killed and several wounded. Many arrests have been made.

After the shots the Kniaz Potemkine fired before last midnight nothing further happened. Anxious Odessa woke early to find the Black sea squadron lying off Langeron point, and every one was expecting a naval fight. The city was like an armed camp. Troops barred all the approaches to the harbor and were bivouacking in tents in Cathedral square and four batteries of artillery well supplied with ammunition had been placed in the park and at Langeron.

Watched for Naval Fight.

The populace, astir at dawn, rapidly availed itself of every housetop or eminence commanding a view of the harbor. The Kniaz Potemkine was soon seen steaming to meet the squadron, exchanging signals as she proceeded. Then, to the astonishment of all, Admiral Kruger's five battleships passed out of sight and the excitement of the town grew more intense. At noon the squadron returned in line abreast and was now accompanied by several torpedo boats and torpedo boat destroyers.

Again the Kniaz Potemkine started to meet the vessels and another rapid exchange of signals took place, apparently in a secret code, for they could not be read from the shore.

The Kniaz Potemkine was seen to be clearing for action and the squadron to be maneuvering in battle array, continually signaling until the rebel battleship lay midway between the shore and the squadron, with her broadsides pointed

TAFT AND PARTY OFF FOR MANILA

Statesmen, Soldiers and the President's Daughter Start for the Orient.

SECRETARY WILL BE BUSY

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, June 30.—William H. Taft, secretary of war, accompanied by a distinguished party, including members of both houses of congress, army officers, the daughter of the president, Miss Alice Roosevelt, and others, began their journey to the Philippine islands at 5:30 this afternoon. The party embarked in two special cars on the regular Chicago train over the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. At the station to say good-by were the French ambassador and Madame Jusserand, Mr. Takahira, the Japanese minister, Assistant Secretary of War Oliver, Gen. and Mrs. Chaffee and numerous other friends of the party.

Although Secretary Taft expects to have a relief from the arduous duties of the past few months during his absence, the trip is one of official inspection and many matters of administration will be considered. At Chicago tomorrow night he will meet and confer with John F. Stevens, who was appointed today to succeed Chief Engineer Wallace, of the Panama canal commission. He will also confer with W. H. Darling, with whom negotiations are now pending to take the place of Mr. Stevens, who was to have been a member of the Philippine party and remain in the Islands in charge of the construction of railroads aided by government subsidy. Should present negotiations prove satisfactory Mr. Darling may accompany the secretary.

A stay of four days will be made in San Francisco, which is to be reached July 4. An interesting feature of the trip will be the call of the secretary upon the emperor of Japan at Tokyo. The Japanese minister here has assured the secretary that his government is desirous of extending every courtesy possible. The secretary's response to this was that he well understood that the palace would be vacated by the imperial family on account of the summer season, at the time of his visit to Tokyo, and that his call would simply be the formal "card call" of respect.

Three months are to be consumed in the trip, including a stay of one week in Manila and a trip around the islands occupying ten days.

NORWAY IS NOT ARMING TO FIGHT WITH SWEDEN

Mobilization of the Army Explained as the Usual Course of Training.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

CHRISTIANA, NORWAY, June 30.—The Norwegian war department says there is no truth in the report that Norway is arming for a conflict with Sweden. The Norwegian troops, it is explained, are merely undergoing their usual training.

STOCKHOLM, June 30.—A telegram from Trondjem announces that almost the entire Norwegian army has been mobilized, and that three classes of conscription are armed and in training. Tuesday night, it is added, 2,000 infantry were moved toward the Swedish boundary. Sixty-five cars and two engines were sent south from Trondjem to assist in the movement of troops.

CHICAGO, June 30.—The petition forwarded to President Roosevelt, signed by nearly 20,000 Norwegians, asking the recognition of the new government of Norway, says:

"We do earnestly hope and do respectfully petition you will at the earliest opportunity signify your recognition of the new government of Norway so created by the sovereign will of the Norwegian people as expressed by the unanimous action of their representatives in storthing assembled."

Thurston Defends Mitchell.

PORTLAND, ORE., June 30.—Former Senator John M. Thurston began his argument in the defense of United States Senator John H. Mitchell in the United States circuit court today. He contended that he came 2,000 miles to assist in the defense of the senator because he had seen the old statesman in comparative poverty in Washington after 24 years' service in the United States senate and knew Senator Mitchell was an honest man.

Lost His Life to Save Others.

NEW YORK, June 30.—A five-ton boiler mounted on a truck ran away down the Amsterdam hill at One Hundred and Thirty-fourth street tonight, and killed Joseph Olive, a watchman, who lost his life while averting a collision between the runaway and a crowded street car. The motorman set his brakes and jumped, followed by the passengers. Women were bruised and pounded in the mad rush to get off.

FILLS SHOES OF WALLACE

John F. Stevens of Chicago Now Chief Engineer of Canal.

THE SALARY IS $30,000

Chairman Shonts Remarks That He Is a Man Who Will "Stay Put."

IS RECOMMENDED BY HILL

Secretary Taft today announced that John F. Stevens of Chicago, had been appointed chief engineer of the Panama canal to succeed John F. Wallace, whose resignation has been accepted. Theodore P. Shonts, chairman of the isthmian canal commission remarked when the announcement was made. "He is the man who will stay put."

While Mr. Stevens will be chief engineer of the canal he will not be a member of the commission. He will be employed under the direction of Chairman Shonts, who becomes virtually the supreme head of the canal enterprise. As an additional reminder to Mr. Wallace that he is not indispensable, the government has fixed Mr. Stevens' salary at $30,000 a year, which is as much as Chairman Shonts receives and $5,000 more than Mr. Wallace's salary was.

A meeting of what members of the commission are now in Washington will be held tomorrow, and as soon as Mr. Stevens can arrange his affairs satisfactorily, he will come to Washington and proceed with Mr. Shonts and other canal commission officials to Panama. Capable assistants to the chief engineer will be appointed, and, to quote the words of Chairman Shonts, "There will hereafter be a duplicate to every part of the machine." This official announcement was given out at the war department this afternoon.

The Official Statement.

Mr. John F. Stevens has been appointed chief engineer of the isthmian canal, with residence on the isthmus, to take effect at once. Mr. Stevens is now in the service of the Philippine commission as government railway expert in the 1,000 miles of Philippine railways about to be constructed under government aid. Mr. Stevens was to have today accompanied Secretary Taft to the Philippines, but has been transferred to the Panama canal.

He was until recently vice president and general manager of the Rock Island system, formerly chief engineer and general manager of the Great Northern railway, and has extended experience in the projection, construction, operation and management of large enterprises.

The duties of chief engineer of the isthmian canal especially relate to the practical work of construction and operation. The technical plans are to be determined by the commission as a body with the advisory international board of engineers recently appointed by the president, and whose plans as decided from stage to stage will be executed on the isthmus by the chief engineer. With the chief engineer confining himself to the actual work of construction and operation and concentrating upon the execution of the plans as adopted by the commission, it is believed the canal work will be more actively prosecuted.

Certificate from Hill.

When Col. R. C. Edwards, U. S. A., chief of the bureau of insular affairs, was looking for a man qualified to supervise for the government the construction of the new railway system in the Philippines he considered the name of Mr. Stevens. James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern railway, said to Col. Edwards: "Mr. Stevens is the most practical and saving constructive engineer I know of. The division of the Great Northern which he built for me in the Rocky mountains is the best division of the road, and I have less trouble with it."

This was considered high praise, for Mr. Stevens left the Great Northern because of a disagreement with Mr. Hill. Mr. Stevens is 52 years old, and has been engaged in western railroad work ever since he was a young man. He began engineering work in Texas, from 1879 to 1881 he was in the employ of the Denver & Rio Grande railway. He took charge of the location of the main line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul across Iowa in 1882, and subsequently was the engineer for the contractors who built 300 miles of the Canadian Pacific railway between Winnipeg and the Rocky mountains.

This led to his becoming the principal assistant engineer of the Canadian Pacific, during which time he was engaged in the location and construction of heavy mountain work in British Columbia. In 1888 he assumed charge of the exploration, location and construction of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railway, from Sault Ste. Marie to Duluth. Subsequently Mr. Stevens was engaged in developing property in British Columbia, and in 1890 he went to the Great Northern Railway Company.

Stevens' Best Work.

He was engineer of the construction of this road across the state of Washington and through the Cascade mountains, and in 1895 he became the chief engineer of the Great Northern system. His most conspicuous service was rendered to the Great Northern in 1898, when, with two Indian guides and a pack of mules he left Assiniboine to lay out the western extension of the Great Northern to the coast. The Indians deserted him and his pack mules died, but he persevered in the work and succeeded.

As chief engineer and general manager of the Great Northern railway in 1900 and 1901 Mr. Stevens practically rebuilt the main lines of this system, as well as constructed extensive terminal docks on the Pacific coast. After leaving the Great Northern in 1903 Mr. Stevens became chief engineer and vice president of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railway, becoming second vice president in 1904. A change of management on the Rock Island system caused him to step out a few months ago.

Mr. Wallace is well informed as to Mr. Stevens' qualifications, and recommended him to the government as an engineer eminently suited to supervise the work of railway construction by contract in the Philippines. Had Mr. Stevens not determined to accept the Panama canal post

LOCAL BRIDGE QUESTION IS IN MR. TAFT'S GRIP

Proposition of Raising the Structures Will Be Decided Somewhere on the Route to the Philippines.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The question as to whether the bridges over the Allegheny river at Pittsburgh, above the Union bridge, shall be raised, will be determined somewhere between San Francisco and Manila. Secretary Taft dumped the papers pertaining to this case into his grip and carried them with him when he left the city this afternoon for his long trip.

He had hoped to decide the case yesterday or today and have it off his hands, but a press of public business prevented, and so he took the papers with him and will have plenty of time to go through them thoroughly while he is on the ocean. It is probable that the decision will not be announced until he returns in October, but he may possibly cable the purport of the decision from Manila.

Stevens' Powers Limited.

The new chief engineer will not have by any means the power which Mr. Wallace was given upon his own request. Mr. Stevens, in addition to being chief engineer of the canal, will be the general manager of the Panama railroad. This leaves the commission with only six members. Another will be chosen, but who will be selected has not yet been considered.

W. A. Darling of Chicago, who is connected with the Rock Island railway, has been tendered an appointment to succeed J. F. Stevens in the work of railway construction in the Philippines. His appointment has not yet been announced officially, but it is understood he will accept the place.

Mr. Darling was born in Oxford, Mass., in 1856, and was educated at the Worcester Polytechnic. He began his railroad career as an engineer with the Northern Pacific and remained with that road almost constantly until about two years ago, when he became chief engineer of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railway.

Secretary Taft and Chairman Shonts today decided to avoid trouble by rejecting all bids received for the dredging of the harbor at Colon, Panama. New advertisements and specifications will be prepared and issued in place of the specifications prepared under the direction of the late chief engineer, John F. Wallace, which some prospective bidders have protested were faulty.

The protests already received from contractors who would have liked to have made bids said that so little time had been provided between the advertisement for bids and the date of opening of bids that they were not able to go into the work with their eyes open. On this ground Secretary Taft approved Mr. Shonts' position and bids will be again invited and at least 60 days will elapse between the advertisement and the opening of bids.

AMERICA INTERESTED IN THINGS, NOT NAMES

Engineer Stevens Says It Makes Little Difference Who Digs Canal So Long as It Gets Done.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, June 30.—In his home, 67 Shore drive today, John F. Stevens chatted on the subject of the great enterprise which he has been suddenly called to carry to completion—the construction of the Panama canal.

"I cannot anticipate so big an undertaking," he said, with a serious smile. "I have never been on the ground. What information I have has been gained from this distance, and it is insufficient upon which to base any settled convictions."

"Were you expecting the appointment?" was asked.

"No," he replied, "it came unsolicited. The world is not looking for names," he continued, "but for things. America wants the canal, and isn't interested in who does the work so that it is done and done well."

"Then you are going to Panama as a matter of patriotic duty, and not as a speculation."

"I prefer to stay in this climate in my home, with my friends. I hesitated some time before accepting as it was. But I am in for it now."

DOESN'T WANT WALLACE.

August Belmont Says Interborough Company Has Never Thought of Engaging His Services.

NEW YORK, June 30.—When asked today if it was true the Interborough Rapid Transit Company had engaged John F. Wallace, formerly chief engineer of the Panama canal, August Belmont, president of the company, said:

"There is not the slightest truth in the report that the Interbrough has had for a moment in mind the engagement of Mr. Wallace, nor will it consider it. The company does not make a practice of buying men from their engagements; it seeks to secure those who are willing to enter its service in a spirit of loyalty, who will remain, and who will serve its interests and identify their future with it. Above all, the company will not go into the government service, to that service's detriment."

MR. WALLACE REPLIES TO SECRETARY TAFT

He Defends Himself from Charge of Resigning for "Mere Lucre."

IS HIS OWN MASTER

LEAVES CANAL IN GOOD SHAPE

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 30.—John F. Wallace, who resigned as member and chief engineer of the Panama canal commission, and whom Secretary Taft charged with leaving the canal work at a critical moment, made a public statement tonight, replying to Secretary Taft. After making the statement Mr. Wallace left the city. He said he was going to take a much-needed rest, and did not expect to return during the summer.

Mr. Wallace would not make public any of his future plans. He said the work he is to take up will be announced by the officials of the organization with which he is to become connected, when they deem it proper. Mr. Wallace says:

The primary causes which led me to tender my resignation as chief engineer of the isthmian canal commission were underlying and fundamental, and I must emphatically resent the charge that my motive in leaving the work was a financial one.

A careful consideration of the entire subject had brought me to the decision that I should disconnect myself with the work at the earliest possible date that it could be done without embarrassment to the administration or injury to the work. It is unnecessary to state the reasons for this decision, except that in fairness I should say they involve no criticism of any act of the president or the secretary of war.

Thought It Out on Ship.

My final decision was arrived at as the result of six days uninterrupted thought which I was able to give the subject in all its bearings during my voyage from New York to Colon, in May. Furthermore, I had pledged myself to my family to give the matter of my resignation as chief engineer or of any position which would require my continuous residence on the isthmus, serious consideration.

It was at this physiological moment I received a cablegram from New York offering me a business opportunity which I was bound to consider. I therefore immediately cabled the secretary of war requesting a conference and arrived in New York for that purpose on Thursday, June 22.

In the meantime, I had addressed a letter to the secretary in which I confirmed the interview and also requested my annual leave of absence, which was part of my original understanding with the isthmian canal commission, and which I had requested from Admiral Walker in March, to take effect at our mutual convenience sometime later in the season, which request, however, was not complied with or answered, owing probably to the sudden change made in the commission on the first of April.

On my arrival in New York I was met by Mr. William Nelson Cromwell, who stated he was delegated by the secretary to arrange for a personal interview with me, and asked if I would meet him at the Manhattan hotel at 10 a. m., Sunday, June 25.

Tried to Pump Him.

While Mr. Cromwell treated me with the suavity and courtesy for which he is noted, he endeavored to draw from me my reasons for deciding to see the secretary. I told him frankly I did not consider it would be proper for me to discuss the mater in advance of my interview, and I also requested him to arrange for me with the secretary that the interview should be absolutely private and that no one but the secretary and myself should be present.

On arriving at the Manhattan Sunday, I was met by Mr. Cromwell who ushered me into the secretary's private apartment, accompanied by my son. Assuming that arrangements had been made for a strictly private interview my son withdrew, expecting Mr. Cromwell to do the same. However, the secretary, in a rather peremptory manner, directed Mr. Cromwell to remain.

This action, of course, caused irritation and apprehension on my part that the interview would be unpleasant and unsatisfactory, and the irritation under which the secretary was evidently laboring had a tendency to prevent that calm and dignified consideration of the question in all its bearings which should have been given it.

If the secretary understood me to say I had accepted a position in New York he labored under a misapprehension. I did state to him that I desired to accept one but under such circumstances and conditions and at such time as would cause the least embarrassment to the administration and the least injury to the work, and that I was even willing to go to the extent of remaining for an indefinite time on the commission should he desire my counsel and advice in arranging for the change, assisting in preparing plans for submission to the advisory board of engineers in September, or in the further consideration of the question by the administration or congress during its next session.

Outraged His Feelings.

Much to my surprise, he indignantly spurned my suggestion and took the position I was compelled, under what he calls my contract, to remain in charge of the isthmian canal, regardless of circumstances or conditions, until the completion of the work, and spoke in such a manner as to outrage my feelings to such an extent that further discussion of the reasons for my action was out of the question.

I did not seek the position of chief engineer of the isthmian canal commission, and considering my salary as general manager of the Illinois Central Railroad Company and my other sources of earnings, my financial condition was not improved by my acceptance of the position, and it was with the most reluctance I did so.

While it was my own expectation that I should continue my connection with the work, it did not occur to me that I was not free to withdraw if justice to myself and my family, and to my reputation as an engineer, required me to do so. It was not only my right but my duty, for the matter the most careful consideration in all its bearings, considering not only the general situation as it affected the work, but my family, personal and business relations and all the various factors entering into the problem; and I could not concede the right to the secretary of war or any one to dictate my decision. The only debatable questions are the details as to putting my decision into effect, and while I stated to the secretary what my desires were, I told him I was perfectly willing to conform to his wishes as far as possible as to the time and manner of my withdrawal.

He Did Not Dicker.

It was this suggestion to which he chose to refer as a "dicker." To that statement I naturally took exception, particularly as he stated he did not care for any reports that I might make, summarizing and analyzing the results of a year's hard work on the isthmus, also that he did not value my counsel and advice, and that the only service he desired was that of a constructing engineer on the isthmus.

No intimation of friction between the secretary of war and myself would have ever become public if it had not, accidentally or otherwise, been given out by the persons in attendance at the conference on Sunday, other than myself, and I desire to state emphatically, and the representatives of the press will bear me out, that I have refused absolutely, either directly or indirectly, to be interviewed and have remained silent under the innuendoes which have been daily published since the conference, and would not have made even this statement at this time if it had not been for the severe strictures contained in the published statement of the secretary, which I consider unjust and uncalled for, and which could serve no useful purpose.

Time Was Opportune.

In regard to the situation at Panama, at no time during the progress of the work could my relations have been severed more opportunely than now and with less damage to the work. A complete organization of departments and bureaus has been effected. Mr. W. E. Dauchy, a gentleman of high engineering attainments, who has been chief engineer of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad Company, and who had occupied the position of division engineer in charge of the Culebra division, was, upon my leaving the isthmus, placed in charge of the work as acting chief engineer, he having occupied a similar position during my absence from the isthmus at the call of the secretary during the month of April, and having satisfactorily conducted the work through the demoralization attendant upon the change in organization.

The only work which can be performed until after congress at its next session shall take some decided action, is the gradual increase in the organization and the addition of units of machinery along a well-defined plan, which Mr. Dauchy thoroughly understood.

The simple work of excavating at Culebra and preparing for further excavation are the only things which could be done pending a final decision from congress. The only possible benedt that my personal service as chief engineer could have been to the work was such as might be due to the purely personal element, which would have been largely supplied by my continuance with the work in an advisory capacity. As far as the actual engineering and construction work was concerned, Mr. Dauchy was fully as capable as I.

Did His Duty Faithfully.

Despite all of the discouragement and obstacles which have surrounded this work, as the secretary knows and has practically stated in his letter, I endeavored faithfully and vigorously to perform the duties of my office, and have never complained or criticised my superiors or anyone connected with the work, and, as stated in the secretary's communication, I have never requested additional emolument or asked any favors of a personal nature. Any suggestions which I may have made, as his statement will bear me out, have been made because I considered them necessary for the increased efficiency of the work.

The reorganization of the work in April was not considered ideal, but as it was such a decided improvement over the existing condition of affairs and seemed to be all that could be done under existing laws, I gave it my hearty approval.

I have made no criticism of personnel or individuals, but do believe that the obstacles due to the governmental methods required by existing laws are so serious that they will have to be eliminated if the American people are to see the Panama canal constructed in a reasonable time and at a moderate cost.

My only desire in this statement has been to protect against what I consider the unjust denunciations of the secretary, and to fully inform my personal friends and professional brethren, who have been familiar with my career, of the essential facts relating to this matter. I emphatically disclaim all responsibility for the various statements recently published, alleged to have been made by so-called friends.

JOHN F. WALLACE.

MRS. WALLACE ALSO MAKES A STATEMENT

Says Her Husband Was No Man to Have Around a Place in Which Politics Figure.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, June 30.—Mrs. John F. Wallace, who returned to her home from Panama a few days ago, talked of her husband's experiences today.

"Has a man no rights in a free country?" Mrs. Wallace asked. "Can't he, when he makes an honorable proposition to equip his successor to do his work, withdraw from any position that he sees fit? Besides, Mr. Wallace has always been opposed to politics and he is no man to have around a place where politics has anything to do with the work.

"Mr. Wallace had absolutely no intention of giving up the position on the canal without giving the government all the time it needed to obtain a man to take charge of the work. He knew Secretary Taft was to leave for the Philippines early in July, and naturally wanted to talk over the question of resigning rather than wait and take such action after the secretary had left the United States.

"It was Mr. Wallace's intention, I know, when he arranged for the interview with Secretary Taft to inform him as to the decision he had arrived at, and then remain in charge of the canal work until such time as his successor should be chosen and until he had an opportunity, under Mr. Wallace's guidance, to familiarize himself thoroughly with the work to be prosecuted on the canal.

"There is no truth in the newspaper stories that illness, or fear of illness, or anything of that nature, had anything to do with Mr. Wallace's giving up the position. The whole thing, judging from the newspaper accounts, is explained by the fact that the president and Secretary Taft became angered when they heard Mr. Wallace was to give up the work and insisted on his retiring immediately."

NOW COUNTING DEAD IN ODESSA

Several Hundred Are Killed or Wounded in Riots—Mob Numbers 12,000.

GREAT LOSS OF PROPERTY

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ODESSA, June 30.—Mobs estimated to number 12,000 persons attacked the patrol of troops in the streets yesterday and the fighting continued into the night. Several hundrd persons were killed or wounded. The hospitals are crowded with wounded. The petroleum reservoirs were set on fire and exploded. All traffic in the streets is stopped. The volunteer cruiser Saratoff was burned.

Up to the present time nine ships have been burned. All gas and electric lights were out last night. Only the burning quays lighted up the city. The conflagration was checked this morning. All the work of the port continues at a standstill. The custom house is closed. Troops are guarding the entrances to the quays.

Foreign merchantmen have been granted permission to moor outside the port if they think it necessary to do so. Comparative calm has been restored within the city, but disorder continues in the harbor section where considerable part of the wharves and docks have been burned.

According to the official version the mutiny on the Kniaz Potemkine was the result of a plot concocted by 20 sailors who were members of a revolutionary organization. The complaints against bad food were, it is asserted, mere pretexts. When the complaint was made to the captain of the battleship he caused the blue-jackets to be drawn up on the decks and asked those who were satisfied to step out and it was seen that they were in the majority.

Whereupon the minority, headed by the revolutionists, who are said to have included foreign anarchists, seized the guns and turned them upon their comrades. A bloody scene followed. Nine officers and many men were killed or jumped overboard and the mutineers, after placing the remaining officers in irons, took charge of the warship. Commander Golikoff was among those killed. The red flag was hoisted when the Kniaz Potemkine appeared off Odessa. When the body of Omiltchuk (the man who was shot by the commander of the warship, according to previous reports) was taken ashore for burial, it was surrounded by crowds of students and revolutionists, many of whom were Jews. Inflammatory speeches were made and subsequently some of the revolutionists went on board the ship and assured the sailors of the army's sympathy and readiness to co-operate with them. The sailors then turned their attention to the ships in the harbor and to a portion of the city's waterfront, which was soon on fire in many places.

During the wild excesses of Wednesday night about 200 rioters were killed by the troops and several hundred were wounded, a number of them being Jews. Many drunken rioters perished in the flames. Early last night the Kniaz Potemkine opened fire on Odessa. The firing of two blank shots was followed by two solid shots, but they passed over the town and did no damage.

During the night many steamers in the harbor which escaped the flames sailed away. In concluding the narrative compiled from the governor's report the official who gave the information to the Associated Press said:

"This is not a revolution; it is mere drunken anarchy."

Admiral Skrydloff, who formerly commanded the Black sea fleet, declared the Kniaz Potemkine had the worst crew in the navy.

The firing on the town by the Kniaz Potemkine was caused by the local authorities arresting 10 of the crew who escorted the body of Omiltchuk to the grave yard. After one projectile had exploded in a house in the center of the city, demolishing its upper portion, the authorities gave in and surrendered the sailors.

MARINES MUTINY AND WRECK BARRACKS

Five Thousand Russian Blue Jackets Make Successful Fight for Better Food.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

LIBAU, RUSSIA, June 30.—Six companies of marines mutinied at Libau and wrecked their barracks. They were surrounded by artillery and infantry and some of the marines surrendered. The sailors, after a parly with the commander of the troops, agreed to surrender their arms and return upon the promise of better food.

The mutiny started Wednesday night when the sailors of the first equipage, as the naval units are known in Russia, revolted because the food was bad. They were joined immediately by the Sixth, Ninth, Thirteenth and Fifteenth equipages, 5,000 blue jackets in all.

The guard at first tried to oppose them, killing one and wounding seven, but the sailors got the upper hand. They seized the guard house, broke open stores, securing arms and ammunition. Pandemonium followed throughout the night. The mutineers wrecked the barracks, attacked the quarters of the officers and fired volleys at random until morning.

The city was terrorized when troops and artillery arrived yesterday morning. All entrances to the city were closed and gradually the sailors were driven into the wood.

CHIEF FOUND MURDERED.

Head of Gendarmerie at Kishineff Is Assassinated at His Home. Strikes Are Renewed.

KISHINEFF, June 30.—Gen. Czernolucki, chief of the Bessarabian gendarmerie, has been found murdered in his residence at Kishineff. Another strike has broken out at Kishineff. The town is occupied by Cossacks.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 30.—The strike at Voznesensk, province of Vladimir, continues. The town resembles a military camp. Infantry and cavalry are quartered in the houses and courtyards and are bivouacking in the streets.

SERADZ, RUSSIAN POLAND, June 30.—Two squadrons of Cossacks have arrived here to quell the rioting caused by the whipping by the police of a number of agitators.

KALIZ, RUSSIAN POLAND, June 30.—Cossacks today dispersed with their whips a crowd which attempted to make a demonstration with red flags in front of the church of the Bernardines.

EIGHT THOUSAND MUTINY.

Imperial Sailors and Workmen Rebel Suddenly at Russian Naval Port.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 30.—Eight thousand imperial sailors, together with the workmen at the yards and docks of the naval port of Cronstadt, suddenly refused to work and a state of mutiny existed there for some time. One officer was killed.

Cronstadt is a fortress and seaport of Russia, at the head of the Gulf of Finland, and 20 miles west of St. Petersburg. It is situated on the east side of Kotlin island. The port of Cronstadt is the chief station of the Russian army.

Police Roughly Handled.

CRONSTADT, June 30.—Hundreds of workmen paraded here today and roughly handled several police officers and a naval officer. The workmen were finally dispersed by troops who arrested 2?

FREE ZONE ABOLISHED; QUEER CONDITIONS

EL PASO, TEX., June 30.—The Mexican free zone, 16 miles wide, on the American border was abolished today. When the free zone obtained, merchandise could be imported into the zone at 10 per cent of the regular Mexican customs duty, but if it was then sent over the zone into the interior the other 90 per cent had to be paid. In this way goods were sold in the border towns of Mexico much cheaper than they could be sold in interior towns or in American border towns, and this made business for the Mexican merchants but the collection of duties on all articles taken from free zone towns further into the republic killed them as manufacturing towns.

JOHN HAY PASSES AWAY.

had lived to see the fall of Babylon. There, likewise, were the unfortunate and forgotten Colfax, E. B. Washburne, the aged and illustrious Crittenden in the last gasp of compromise and peace; Roscoe Conkling, eloquent, assiduous, with his tempest tossed days to come; Frank Blair and John A. Logan, soon to ride by the side of Grant as captains in the great war. There likewise was Arthur P. Gorman in the joy of his promotion from the drivership of the senate mail wagon to be the assistant postmaster and ruling spirit in baseball circles.

Hay had the young man's yearning for the field, but he remained with the president through the dreary days; the days of Manassas, Fredericksburg and Chancellorsville, every morning with his bulletin of disaster, the cup of presidential agony filled to overflowing; those dreary days when the dearest hopes of the union rested upon one man. All else had fallen. The national credit was in the mire. Armies no longer sprang out of the enthusiasm of the people, but were wrenched into place by conscription. The south was united, the flower of the confederacy under Jackson and Lee, accepted leaders in command, the men in the field, the slaves protecting their families. The Republican party was in revolt, the mutiny finding sufferance if not welcome in the cabinet. Foreign opinion was contemptuous and unfriendly, even the prescient Gladstone accepting the confederacy. "We are coming, Father Abraham," found a refrain in "When This Cruel War Is Over." It was night without a single star, and only a supreme intrepid soul like that of Lincoln could pierce the infinite gloom.

An Event in Journalism.

For a few months, while Mr. Reid was in Europe, Hay edited the Tribune. This was an event in journalism. I remember going with Henry Watterson on a visit of homage to the new magnate to see how he looked as an active, responsible editor clothed with the power of warning the emperor of Russia for the third and last time, and other invincible prerogatives. We found little joyousness about him. He was most serious over his duties, seemed as if he had a ball and chain around his leg, a somewhat zoological aspect, as if we were looking through the bars at one yearning for the jungle.

For some years Hay resided in Cleveland. He came at length to live in Washington, his home the center of a gracious hospitality. From this he was summoned by President McKinley to be ambassador to the court of St. James. The story of that embassy is current history and known to all men. And it was natural that the president should offer the primacy to one who had borne himself so worthily in a delicate and exacting station. The selection has fallen upon a statesman in the fullness of his genius, trained above any of his predecessors, with the exception of John Quincy Adams, for diplomatic affairs, having studied his art at the courts of Madrid and Vienna, Paris and London. He takes office at the age of Seward when that gentleman became secretary of state to Lincoln. A mature man, his growth slow like that of the oak, steadily advancing in public esteem as a man of affairs, of diplomacy, of political acumen, of conceded literary fame. He has learned the wisdom of silence, the discipline of patience. His career, thus faintly outlined, gives every warrant for the belief that one whose life has been so rich in opportunity, experience, and achievement will win fresh titles to renown in the high dignity to which he has been called.

EX-TREASURER HANNA IS THOUSANDS SHORT

United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company on His Bonds—Has Some Credits.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

NEW CASTLE, PA., June 30.—A meeting of the finance committee of council was held tonight to hear the official report of Controller Lyman C. Hughes on the shortage discovered in the accounts of ex-City Treasurer Alex. C. Hanna. Controller Hughes' report showed that according to the audit Hanna's shortage was $4,171 84. Since the audit was completed he has been credited with $412 90 on account of taxes paid, so that the exact amount now owed by Hanna to the city is $3,758 94.

This indebtedness will fall on the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company of Pittsburgh, which went on Hanna's bond. The audit of the accounts shows that besides the amount due the city, about $15,000 of Hanna's own money, which he deposited in the Lawrence Trust Company's bank along with the city's funds, has also disappeared. The belief is that a former employe of the treasurer's office regularly robbed the cash drawer.

The finance committee directed City Solicitor James A. Gardner to notify the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company of the shortage and begin steps looking to recovery of the money. A former employe of the treasurer's office is being constantly shadowed by detectives.

BREWERS MAY FOOT BILL FOR BUILDING THE CANAL

Stand Patters Insist Its Cost Shall Be Raised by $1 Tax on Every Barrel of Beer, and Believe They Will Carry Their Contention.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, June 30.—It would be a strange freak of fate if the brewers and beer drinkers of the country had to pay the costs of uniting the waters of the Atlantic and Pacific through the medium of the Panama canal, yet this is the precise proposition being agitated here today.

The "stand patters" declare the canal must be built without the usual resultant change in tariff schedules. They insist the money to build it shall be secured through a tax on beer. They advocate the tax be fixed at $1 a barrel. As the annual output of this beverage is upwards of 45,000,000 barrels, it would net a tidy sum annually, that could be applied at once to the canal project.

The tax on beer, it is further explained, has been decided on as a result of a careful consideration of the whole legislative outlook. The president is now expected to press railroad rate legislation into the foremost position before the coming long session of congress. It is well understood by party leaders, who stand close enough to know the plans of the administration, that the president will insist on going forward with his rate program rather than stand still.

This assurance has been pleasing to the "stand patters." They realize that if railroad legislation is to be the paramount consideration, there will be small chance to make serious trouble with any campaign for tariff revision. Reciprocity advocates are ready to give up their fight, which has served at least to keep the tariff before the country for discussion, and stirring it up at short intervals the railroad question will furnish occupation for one session of congress at least.

Of course, the tariff is the revenue producing feature of the national system. A deficit is a menace to any existing tariff situation because revenues cannot be increased without changing schedules. To open up any one set of schedules the "stand patters" insist, is to open up the whole question. It is to this they object.

So the plan has been evolved of dodging the whole tariff question by putting the $1 a barrel tax on beer. It will fill the treasury and at the same time avoid the embarrassment of considering the tariff.

DETECTIVES KEPT BUSY BY INTERNATIONAL SWINDLER

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 30.—Sidney Lascelles, alias Lord Walter S. Beresford, alias James A. Lasalle, alias Robert Turnbull, a swindler with an international reputation, upon whom the eyes of the police are constantly fixed, is said to be in New York.

While this man, who for 15 years stole women's hearts as cleverly as he manipulated fraudulent checks is outside of prison, the Pinkerton detective agency does not rest. Members of the staff are now trying to find him to know what he is doing since he came from Hot Springs, Ark., where he is said to have served some time in prison for improper transactions.

Lascelles is the son of a game-keeper on the estate of the duke of Devonshire. His record here dates back to 1891. It was after he had duped his own countrymen that he came to America to avoid arrest.

In London he met Miss Maud Lillienthal, daughter of a wealthy tobacco dealer of Yonkers. Mrs. Lillienthal did not like the man. She took her daughter to Algiers. Thither Lascelles went. He followed her to America and induced her to elope. They were married in Beaver, Pa., in 1891. Subsequently Mrs. Lascelles obtained a divorce.

The man is said to have left $10,000 worth of bad debts alone in Fitzgerald and Rome, Ga. Richard K. Fox later had him arrested in New York for passing a bogus $500 check on a London bank. Lascelles was arrested in Boston in 1902 on a charge of larceny. He got a short term in prison.

Alleged Postoffice Robber Caught.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., June 30.—(Special.)—John Tregole, a well-known man, was arrested today charged with robbing the postoffice at West Union a few nights ago. Fred Goldstohm, proprietor of a saloon, was arrested charged with receiving stolen stamps from Tregole. Both were held to await the action of the federal grand jury.

KILLS WOMAN WHO WANTS TO RETURN TO HUSBAND

Joliet Man Shoots Another Man's Wife Whom He Had Induced to Elope With Him to Cleveland.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CLEVELAND, June 30.—Albert Henry Darwin, 36 years of age, of Joliet, Ills., a widower and father of two children, shot and instantly killed Mrs. Anna Gray, 30 years of age, the wife of a tailor living in Joliet, here this afternoon and then attempted suicide. He was prevented from doing so by several men who overpowered him after he had killed Mrs. Gray.

Darwin was infatuated with the woman. The couple had eloped and have been away from Joliet for a number of weeks. They had been living in Chicago, Akron and other places. They had been in Cleveland two weeks.

Today Mrs. Gray told Darwin she had received a threatening letter from her husband and said she wanted to return home. Darwin objected and the couple quarreled. They went for a walk in one of the city parks this afternoon and continued their quarreling. As they were leaving the park this evening and were about to board a street car, Darwin pulled a pistol from his pocket and shot the woman five times, killing her instantly, then turned the revolver on himself.

RUMORS OF CHANGES.

General Shift Among Foreman and Superintendents at Braddock Is Announced.

It was semi-officially announced at Braddock yesterday that nearly a dozen changes among the foremen and superintendents at the Edgar Thomson mills of the Carnegie Steel Company would be made today, owing to the promotion of Andrew E. Maccoun, who recently became superintendent of the furnaces at this plant, succeeding Herman Brassert, resigned.

James Friedlander, at present in charge of the electrical department at the Carrie furnaces, is to succeed Mr. Maccoun as head of the same department at the Edgar Thomson plant. George Campbell, at present assistant master mechanic at the Edgar Thomson furnaces, is to be made master mechanic.

ANOTHER SHIP IN MUTINY

respectively toward the town and the squadron as if threatening to shell Odessa should she be attacked by Kruger's ships. In addition to his seeming reluctance to destroy so fine a battleship, Admiral Kruger was apparently animated by a desire in case he should be compelled to open fire to fight further seaward. Later the squadron was observed to send 10 boatloads of marines toward the Kniaz Potemkine, apparently to take possession of the mutinous ship, for it soon became known that she had surrendered unconditionally after, it is said, vainly demanding amnesty.

Martial Law Proclaimed.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 30.—Martial law has been proclaimed in the governments of Sebastopol and Nicholaieff and Erivan. An imperial decree confers on the viceroy of the Caucusus the rights of a military commander, with special powers. The same powers are bestowed on the commander of the Black sea fleet so far as the districts of Sebastopol and Nicholaieff are concerned.

The governments of Sebastopol and Nicholaieff adjoin the government of Kherson in which Odessa is situated and where martial law has already been declared. Erivan is a government of trans-Caucasia, where most serious disturbances have occurred.

Now that the Kniaz Potemkine has surrendered it is probable that the government will gradually allow the publication of the details of the mutiny. The censorship this morning merely permitted the newspapers to print a dispatch which, under the circumstances, would do credit to a first-class humorist. This dispatch read:

ODESSA, June 17 (Old style).—The tranquility of the city having been interrupted, martial law has been declared.

CAPTURED CITIES OPENED FOR TRADE

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The state department has been advised by the American minister at Tokyo that the Japanese military commander has, by proclamation, opened to the Japanese merchants for trade and travel, the following Manchurian towns: Pashikao, Old Niuchwang, Haicheng, Anshantien, Liao Yang, Kaiping, Seng-Wang-Cheng and Saimachi.

Women Complain of Loafers.

Fourteen young men were arrested yesterday by Constables Jessee Kleinfelder and Louis Cubbage of Sharpsburg, charged with insulting women and girls at the Guyassuta bridge, near Darlington hollow. The men will receive hearings today before Justice R. A. Saint. Women passing over the bridge and climbing the stile in the fence which borders the Darlington estate have been annoyed for some time past by loafers.

PROPERTY-OWNERS CONSIDERING COMPROMISE ON 15-FOOT CUT

PROPOSED CUTS AND GRADES

"The Frick building was not constructed for an 18-foot cut. Any cut at all will injure the building. The basement of the Frick building cannot be made the street floor, because that was not the plan when the building was erected. Mr. Frick has made important concessions which will injure his building, but he is willing to make this sacrifice to help along the improvement."

This statement was made to the finance committee of councils yesterday afternoon by D. B. Kinch, superintendent of the Frick building. Mr. Frick did not appear before the committee, but authorized Supt. Kinch to speak for him. After the meeting Supt. Kinch got into a conversation with Chairman Bole of the finance committee and several other councilmen and he went more into details.

"It is not true, as many people suppose," said he, "that the Frick building was constructed with the idea that the basement, where the Union restaurant is now located, should be the street floor after the hump was cut down. The proposed cut of five feet in front of the Frick building will make a flight of 18 steps at the Fifth avenue entrance to the building."

Lays Plan Before Committee.

Director Bigelow laid the latest proposition agreed to by Mr. Frick before the finance committee, explaining the cuts and grades proposed in the different streets as shown herewith, but he refrained form indorsing the plan. He showed there would be a reduction of 2 per cent in the grade of Fifth avenue between Smithfield and Grant streets with a cut of 15 feet at Fifth and Wylie and 8.6 feet at the Frick building. This would make a cut of 10 feet at the court house.

There would be an easy grade running in both directions from the center of the Frick building in Grant street and grades of 6 per cent in Sixth avenue, Oliver avenue and Diamond street, leaving the grade of Sixth avenue from Smithfield to Grant practically unchanged. The plan provides for a cut of 2.6 feet at Grant and Sixth, 9 feet at Sixth and Webster 7.6 feet at Webster and Tunnel, and 12.6 feet at Ross and Fifth avenue.

"At no point would the grades be excessive," said Director Bigelow, "but before acting I would suggest the property owners here be heard and the finance committee make a trip over the hump district some day next week and see just what effect these cuts would have. The engineers will mark on the building the cuts at every street, to aid you."

Owners Demand 18-Foot Cut.

About 30 property owners or their representatives were present, including Supt. Kinch of the Frick building. Supt. Kinch was the only one who spoke favorably of the 15-foot cut.

"I am in favor of an 18-foot cut and if any cut is made at all it should be the original cut," said M. F. Maloney, who owns property at the corner of Grant and Diamond streets. "I have been waiting for years for this hump cut and have spent $30,000 in improving my property expecting the cut to be made. I am ready to sign a waiver for an 18-foot cut."

James F. Hudson said he represented the O'Neill heirs and the Dispatch Publishing Company.

"The interests I represent," said he, "will waive damages for any cut above 12 feet. We prefer the 18-foot cut, but will sign for a 12 or 15-foot cut, providing we have positive assurances that it is the best that can be done. We are opposed to having two cuts made of the hump. I cannot lay enough emphasis on the necessity of having positive assurances that this cut will be permanent."

Bigelow Shows Waiver.

Director Bigelow arose and exhibited a waiver which Raskei Solomon had signed for his property at Fifth avenue and Grant street. The director said that Mr. Solomon's waiver was based upon the one condition that the hump cut should be 18 feet at Wylie and Fifth avenues and 15 feet at Grant and Fifth avenues.

Robert Garland said he was attorney for the Powell property and the Bailey estate, owning 400 feet frontage in Ross street at Fifth avenue and at Diamond street. His clients wanted an 18-foot cut, and would sign a waiver for it, but he did not want to see two cuts made. He said he believed Mr. Frick might make another concession nearer an 18-foot cut.

No other property owner evinced a disposition to give his views and Councilman P. J. Barry moved that the committee adjourn to next Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock to make a tour of the hump district in company with Director Bigelow and the city engineers, and after the inspection to return to the City hall to take action on the hump ordinance. The property owners were invited to accompany the committee.

HOUSE IS TOPPLING.

Property at 228 Diamond Street in Danger of Collapsing.

Supt. S. A. Dies of the bureau of building inspection, was notified yesterday that the unoccupied building at 228 Diamond street was about to collapse. Timbers were immediately placed against the walls and all immediate danger was averted. The building was erected in 1850 and Supt. Dies will take steps to see that it is either reconstructed or taken down. The house is the property of the O'Hara estate.

Attorneys for the Nicholson estate, owners of the Yellow Row, yesterday conferred with Supt. Dies regarding the dangerous condition of those properties. It is thought as soon as all the heirs have been notified these buildings will be taken down.

CITY SPENDS $35,000 ON RACE TRACK IN PARK

Contract Price of the Brother of a Councilman Is More Than Doubled.

Twenty thousand more dollars are to be spent on the improvement of the race track in Schenley park for the races of the Schenley Matinee club. The finance committee yesterday approved a bill for the transfer of $20,000 to the fund for the regrading of the race track. This is in addition to the $15,000 transferred last year from the Point bridge fund, making the total cost of the job $35,000, instead of $15,000, which was Director Bigelow's estimate to councils.

The contract was awarded to Thomas McNally, brother of Councilman Richard McNally. McNally has been working on the contract for several months, but the job is said to be far from completion, although it was intended to be finished for the races on the Fourth of July.

Instead of a new contract being let for the additional $20,000, it will go to Contractor McNally, probably for "extra work," although the legal point has been frequently raised in councils that no city work for more than $250 can be done without a contract except in a case of an emergency, such as a break in a sewer. McNally secured the contract originally by underbidding other contractors, yet he is to be paid more than double the amount of money named in his contract.

The administration proposes to pay a claim three years old, rendered by Emil Swensson, civil engineer, for the inspection of the old South Tenth street bridge in 1902. His bill for this service is $400. Two other engineers jointly inspected the bridge with Mr. Swensson, but the administration has introduced no bill to pay them. Mr. Swensson also asks $50 and $100 for expert testimony in the Grant boulevard case, in which the contractor sued the city for extra work. The Swensson claim was approved by the finance committee.

Ordinances were also approved yesterday for an additional clerk and stenographer in the general office of the department of public works, and two additional brick inspectors in the bureau of construction.

W. J. BRENNEN IS CARING FOR CLARK'S INTERESTS

While the Commissioner Rests in Utah, His Fried Watches Make-Up of Fusion Ticket.

County Commissioner James A. Clark has gone to Utah and left William J. Brennen on guard. During his absence, it will be the duty of Mr. Brennen to prevent the selection of a fusion candidate for commissioner that is not a Clark man.

Mr. Brennen and Denny O'Neil were in conference yesterday with a committee that wants a representative of union labor placed on the fusion ticket. The friends of Clark are satisfied to recognize the workingmen, provided one of their number is not named for commissioner. There is a renewal of gossip favorable to the nomination of Frank Harper as Clark's running mate.

Owing to a slight illness yesterday County Chairman T. J. Ford was unable to meet with the Republican rules committee. As his presence is desired, the meeting for the adoption of the report has been postponed until Monday.

Former Senator Charles A. Muehlbronner has suggested Dr. Herman W. Heckelman of Allegheny as a candidate for the Republican nomination for a county office. He says Dr. Heckelman is not seeking office, but would make a strong candidate.

Fourth of July in Wilkinsburg.

The committee having in charge the Fourth of July celebration in Wilkinsburg last night completed arrangements. Over $2,000 has been donated. The celebration will include a parade of military and civic organizations in the morning, followed by addressed by John Marron and the Rev. C. W. Smith. During the day balloons will be sent up and in the evening there will be a display of fireworks. All the people of the borough have been requested to decorate their houses.

Delinquency Less This Year.

The last day on which Allegheny water rents could be paid before the 5 per cent penalty for delinquency accrues was taken advantage of yesterday on the North Side. The city treasurer's accounts show that $235,000 in cash and about $35,000 in checks were received. The amount of water rents still delinquent is $30,000 less than last year.

HAMFELDT WILL BE THE MANAGER

Well-Known Furnace Operator Accepts Responsible Position With New Company.

WILL BUILD TOWN OF MIDLAND

George K. Hamfeldt has accepted the position of general manager of the Midland Steel Company, the new concern which will build a big modern furnace plant on the Ohio river at Cooks Ferry.

Mr. Hamfeldt is widely known among iron and steel men for his ability as a furnace manager. He was superintendent of the old Carrie furnaces before the original interests sold them to the Carnegie Steel Company and after the sale he was retained by the Carnegie interests in the same position. His record there still stands. He made the Carrie plant the record-holder for efficiency in production at low cost. His new position as general manager of the Midland will give him another opportunity to demonstrate his talent.

The exclusive announcement in The Gazette yesterday of the formation and plans of the company attracted much attention. Further details were brought out concerning the new company. The 1,000-acre tract of coal in the fourth pool of the Monongahela has been owned by the old Carrie furnace interests for a number of years, having been bought before the recent remarkable increase in coal land values. It lies about a mile above West Brownsville and has a river frontage. Only a short spur of railroad need be built to connect it with the Pennsylvania.

It is the purpose of the new concern to transport this coal by railroad or river to "Midland," as the new town and factory site will be called. There the coke ovens will be built and the same plan followed which has proved very successful in the experience of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company. The gas developed in the process of making coke can be utilized by the furnaces. One opening will be sufficient for the operation of the mine to bring out the needed coking coal.

The furnace and its coke ovens will attract possibly 1,000 workmen. For them the town of Midland will be built, the company's real estate purchases being sufficient to furnish an excellent town site, lying upon the easy slope. From the start the town will be an important one and a big addition to Beaver county's communities.

Doctors, lawyers, teachers and other professional men and women will find a source of much convenience and profit to have a savings account at the Peoples Savings Bank, Fourth avenue and Wood street. Four per cent compound interest paid.

SOMETHING NEW! "WORD HUNT"
$50.00 IN PRIZES
For Four Words Selected From
NEXT SUNDAY'S GAZETTE

Rules and Conditions of the "Word Hunt."

The hunt consists of selecting four words from the advertisements appearing in next Sunday's issue of The Pittsburgh Gazette.

In selecting such words you are privileged to use each letter of the alphabet four times, but not more.

Each letter of the alphabet has a value in points, according to its location in the alphabet. For example, A is one point; B, two points; C, three points, etc. This would make the letter Z count twenty-six points.

The persons selecting the four words aggregating the greatest number of points (on the basis described above) will receive the prizes. We give below examples to demonstrate the difference in value of words. Take the word "Furniture."

6—21—18—14—9—20—21—18—5
F—U—R—N—I—T—U—R—E

It contains nine letters and represents 132 points, whereas you take the word "Handkerchief."

8—1—14—4—11—5—18—3—8—9—6—6
H—A—N—D—K—E—R—C—H—I—E—F

It contains twelve letters, which only represent 92 points.

Answers must give the words selected, explain from what ad they were taken and where the ad is located in the paper. This is necessary to properly check the answers. After each word must be given the number of points it represents; at the bottom of the sheet the total of the points represented in the four words. Sign your name and address plainly.

Saturday, July 1, 1905.

Admiral Sigsbee is at Cherbourg with his squadron to receive the body of John Paul Jones. The occasion will serve for expressions of lasting affection between the country of Lafayette and that which he and John Paul Jones served so well in the hour of its need. No honor to those heroes of old is too great for America to pay.

Norway announces its mobilization of troops is not with warlike intent toward Sweden. It is simply a maneuver. This explanation is reasonable, for there is not now anything in the situation indicating necessity for war preparations. Much greater advantage will accrue to both from conclusion of peaceful negotiations under way.

An indication of the effect produced on the Pennsylvania state bar association by the address of retiring President Niles is afforded by the election of a member of the legislature as vice president of the association for the current year. At all times there is a large number of lawyers among the membership of the general assembly and they are usually reputable attorneys, too.

Roy Knabenshue of Toledo has given an exhibition with his "airship" that leaves no room for doubt that practical aerial navigation has arrived. It is not meant that aerial transit is on a commercial basis, but that a dirigible balloon has been made that may prove of inestimable service in war and in other emergencies. It is the fit companion to the wireless telegraph.

Next week is fixed as the time for resumption of the trial of Allegheny graft cases. Some interesting suits are on the calendar for that time, and though the week will be broken by a great holiday there may be important developments. The public is anxious for the conclusion of these cases, particularly the Allegheny public, in the hope they will lead to a better order of things on the North Side.

Youngstown's chamber of commerce has pledged the support of the Mahoning valley to the Lake Erie and Ohio river canal. The chamber is enthusiastic for the project. Youngstown's interest and that of the Mahoning valley is identical with that of Pittsburgh in the project. It is even greater, for to it the canal is a cheap highway for the receipt of coal from one direction and of ore from the other.

One of the constant complaints against the old Republican organization in Allegheny county was that it kept the same set of men in office. Now, when the advisory committee of the new organization suggests a change, there is a general howl from the opposition. Nobody has been forced out of the race. A few have been advised to quit. The primaries remain wide open. It must be assumed the yell of pain from the Citizens ring organs is elicited by the prospect of losing one of their stock complaints.

Farm laborers in Hungary have struck for higher pay, and serious riots have occurred. Many have been slain by the gendarmes called to preserve order. This disturbance is not distant from the Odessa and Kishineff districts in Russia. American interest is heightened because it is from that part of Europe the heaviest tide of immigration is flowing this way. It is a turbulent region, and its people are not the most desirable as citizens, though no such provocation to discontent as exists there can be found in this country.

Gov. Pennypacker's address to the bar association was characteristic. It caused his hearers to sit up and take notice. They heard the governor's frank opinion about some things, and they heard the ascertained truth about others. The governor is not to be found in the ranks of those who abuse their own state and its institutions. He is too well informed concerning the state, its government and its laws to fall into error about them, and he is too fair-minded to overlook the many great accomplishments of this commonwealth. It is far ahead of most in the conduct of its affairs, as it is in its condition.

Facts to Be Faced.

Yesterday's hearing before the finance committee was productive of some information concerning the proposed cut of the hump. Mr. Frick's representative agreed to an extreme cut of five feet in Grant street, opposite the main entrance to the Frick building and conceded a deeper cut in Fifth avenue. The representative of another interest with large holdings in the district agreed to waive damages on a cut of not less than 12 feet, though preferring 18. Three others conditioned their waivers on the extreme cut of 18 feet. These five probably represent the approximate sentiments of all property holders in the immediate district, those whose properties will be positively injured, as Mr. Frick, to those who have all to gain and nothing to lose. Mr. Frick concedes something to his neighbors at his own loss.

This represents but one end of the problem. The discussion so far has been on the basis that affected property owners shall waive damages and escape assessment for benefits, the general public to pay for the actual cost of the physical improvement. On this the public must be consulted. Last year it declared emphatically against an 18-foot cut. Nothing has happened to indicate any change of sentiment. If the supporters of the project are wise they will take this into account. The public may be ready to assume the cost of a 12-foot cut. An eight or 10-foot reduction would be better and cheaper, but a vote favorable to 12 feet may be obtained, provided there is absolute assurance that no consequential damages can accrue to be paid for later.

Mr. Hudson took a sensible view in the declaration that the cut shall be permanent, and the uncertainty which has existed for years should be removed. He consented to a 12-foot cut, apparently realizing that an 18-foot project will fare no better this year than last. The interest of his clients lies in having the cut as deep as possible—in common with many other owners in the district and beyond—so he naturally favored the deep cut while recognizing the danger from popular opposition. None of the owners to be so benefited have offered to pay benefits, however, so the total physical cost, at the least, is designed to rest on the shoulders of taxpayers in general.

Many owners of property in the district have not signed waivers of damages. It is street talk that some of the loudest shouters for the deepest cut expect to collect substantial sums for alleged injuries when the cut is made. Under these circumstances the people cannot be expected to vote for any cut until it has been conclusively demonstrated there is no bill of damages to follow the cost of doing the work. These are facts that may as well be faced now as another time; better now, in the interest of the improvement, than at the polls.

Canal Engineers.

Appointment of John F. Stevens to be chief engineer of the Panama canal, following the acceptance of the resignation and the severe handling of John F. Wallace, is indicative of the temper of the administration. Canal building is wanted and not talk. This determination will have a responsive echo from the American people.

Mr. Wallace's retirement, the justice of his plea and that of Secretary Taft's reprimand, can be discussed at leisure. The canal work cannot wait. Mr. Stevens comes with high recommendations as a constructive engineer, and as such he is to be used. He will not be a member of the commission, but its servant, and his salary is commensurate with the task to be performed. Chairman Shonts gives assurance, in good old Pennsylvania idiom, that Stevens will "stay put" and that is an important consideration.

Rumors of scandal that floated prior to acceptance of Engineer Wallace's resignation have been dissipated. Mr. Wallace had a personal and family reason for quitting that was sufficient in his estimation. It did not satisfy Secretary Taft or the president. Canal affairs, however, are in good shape, except for the natural disturbance incident to swapping horses in shallow water, and it may be expected they will now go forward with increasing vigor.

Russian Disorders.

While there was some amelioration of conditions at leading centers of disturbance in Russia yesterday, it is doubtful if the general situation is improved. A semblance of order and submission is compelled by the merciless Cossacks, who are employed among people with whom they have no sympathy. However, the simultaneous disaffection of sailors at Libau and Cronstadt is significant of the dislovalty in the government service.

St. Petersburg officialdom makes a pretense that revolutionary sentiment has no place in the recent mutinies. They are characterized as mere drunken frenzy. It is true vodka is the Russian's besetting sin and the prime mover in many of their manifestations. It is not credible, however, that all that has happened in Russia since "red Sunday" can be attributed to vodka. The cause lies deeper, and Russian officials know it. They will breathe easier if they conclude the mobilization of army reserves for Manchuria, now going on, without serious mutiny among the raw troops.

A Notable Gift.

John D. Rockefeller's gift of $10,000,000 for higher education is made in a manner that leaves no room to the sort of objections raised against his recent donation to foreign missions. The fund has been placed in the hands of his friends. It will be used, we doubt not, carefully and judiciously for the object designated. It is a munificent benefaction for a cause generally recognized as deserving. Criticism, if there be any, will come with the best grace from others who have given an equal proportion of their means for benevolent purposes.

Naturally, we may expect a shower of comment, not all laudatory. Mr. Rockefeller has been one of the best abused men in this country. His ordinary policy of silence under attack has encouraged every cur to bark at him, since that may be done with impunity. In point of fact he is probably neither worse nor better than the general run of humankind. His remarkable success in amassing wealth from an industry whose votaries are peculiarly subject to financial shipwreck has magnified his personality and exposed him in unusual degree to the wails of the unfortunate and disappointed.

The Business Situation.

Pittsburgh bank clearings for the month of June foot up $213,758,793, which with one exception is the largest total for any corresponding month in the history of the city. Compared with June, 1904, the increase is more than $41,000,000. The total for the half-year is $1,224,778,107, which is also with one exception the largest on record. The increase compared with the first half of 1904 is nearly a quarter of a billion dollars, or at the rate of more than $1,500,000 a day for every business day of the six months. The only year in which the present figures were exceeded was 1903, a period marked by numerous large financial deals which, while they swelled bank exchanges, did not add anything to the real wealth of the community as a whole. It was also in that year that speculative operations reached the maximum, which further increased the shifting of credits and was reflected in bank clearings. During the six months just closed the local stock market has been the dullest for years, and there has been an absence of the kind of financial operations which expand banking totals, but do not have any direct bearing upon the production and distribution of commodities. The present increase, therefore, may be properly set down to improvement in what is called legitimate trade, particularly in the industries which contribute to the prosperity of the community.

What is true of Pittsburgh is in a measure true of the entire country. There have been periods of great speculative activity in Wall street, and "corners" were attempted in wheat and corn; but there were no great railroad deals and no important promotions, and the increased deposits, loans and clearings of the banks of the United States, which during this period reached their maximum, resulted from expansion in general business. There has not been and there is not now that feverish activity which characterized some lines of trade in 1902 and 1903, but the volume of commercial and financial transactions is larger than ever before. The one complaint which is now heard mainly in mercantile circles is that retailers and consumers are not disposed to anticipate their future needs. This is not an altogether bad sign. It is a safeguard against excessive overproduction which is almost invariably followed by a violent decline in prices and a prolonged period of readjustment. The nearer business is kept to a cash basis the sounder the situation will be, and the productive capacity of the country is now so great and transportation facilities so perfect, that it is easier to conduct business on a hand-to-mouth basis. Besides, the present attitude of retailers and consumers is not unreasonable in view of the government statistics showing the relatively high cost of articles of food, clothing and shelter.

During the past week there was a rather unexpected resumption of gold exports, shipments of the metal having been sent to Paris, where the situation has been disturbed by political events. Notwithstanding these exports, occurring on the eve of semi-annual settlements, the money market in New York did not display any uneasiness. The rise in grain and cotton during the week was due more to the foreign situation than to any unfavorable developments in the domestic crop situation.

Editor Nevin announces he will give the Republican party advice when he pleases. The Republican party, however, need not follow it.

Though the Leader avers public sentiment is rampant for the 18-foot cut of the hump, the election last July did not indicate it.

A riot is anticipated at a baptismal service in Maine tomorrow. The god of war seems to have grown very versatile of late.

Engineer Wallace should now be given time to retire to private life and apply arnica to his numerous bruises.

Your real automobile fiend is disposed to regard the Brunots track races as being tame. No lives were lost.

Perhaps July will give the mosquitoes a chance to throw off their overcoats and go to work.

The "keep off the grass" sign at Oyster Bay will not include the dove of peace in its terms.

Perhaps Engineer Wallace should be excused upon the ground that he needs the money.

Moral, Tex., has been washed away and Texas had no morals it could afford to lose.

It is being demonstrated these days that even commencements have endings.

With Tom Lawson in her midst Kansas will have a Frenzied Fourth.

QUIET OBSERVATIONS

By ERASMUS WILSON.

"You never can tell what your thoughts can do,
In bringing you hate or love;
For thoughts are things,
And their airy wings
Are swifter than carrier dove.
They follow the law of the universe—
Each thing must create of its kind;
And they speed over the track,
To bring you back
Whatever went out of your mind."

Would you like to know how to make people think of you?

Just think of them.

If you think with your heart you will be certain to make them know you are thinking of them, for your heart will prompt you to do something that will touch them all right.

You may have noticed that your heart is ever prompting you to act, to do something that will be worth the doing.

It is our brains that get stupid, our bodies that become tired and our actions that go wrong. Our hearts, through which our spirits are manifested, rarely become weary, but are ever ready with kindly promptings, and at proper times.

Young women have been known to send good money to advertising fakirs for recipes or charms, or drugs to make certain young men think of them.

No doubt a sensible young man would think about such a girl, but what do you think he would think?

* * *

Our actions usually accord very closely with our thoughts, so that we are ever approaching that which we think of most earnestly and longingly.

Haven't you noticed that after you have taken to thinking about a particular girl you are more likely to meet her, and far more likely to pass her house, than before you got to thinking of her? Nor will you deliberately plan to pass her house, or to travel the same street that she does on her way to and from home.

It is because your heart prompts you to go where she is, and if her heart prompts her to go where you are, you two are likely to meet often.

Purely intellectual energy, or mental force, will not do this, only the unconscious, or sub-conscious, forces acting through the heart, as we say for the want of a better term to distinguish spiritual energy from mental energy.

Right here is the edge of the deep water, too deep to paddle in, or even to wade in. There are a lot of people in it, but they are all floating, and very few of them can agree as to any point of the compass. This explains why so few ever return after launching into the deep waters of speculation. Many would return, but don't know the direction to follow and are too suspicious to accept the advice of those they meet.

You yourself won't take advice of another concerning the right direction to go in order to get to a certain point you have in mind.

But if your heart is charged with love it will find the way, be sure of that.

What do you imagine the czar has been thinking concerning his people that they should go and do as they are doing?

Had his thoughts been right toward them he wouldn't be afraid to poke his head out of his castle, much less to drive through the town and across the country.

Somebody has said: "Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown." This is only true when the wearer's heart is not right toward his people. There have been crowned heads that laid easy enough—Queen Victoria's, for instance.

The up-to-date monarch keeps in close touch with his people, mingles with them freely, feels the public pulse and prescribes accordingly. And the ruler who doesn't thus feel the public pulse and prescribe wisely is liable to have his pulse felt and a bomb prescribed.

The czarina appears to be about the only one in the Russian outfit who has a heart that is worth having.

Those who are acquainted with her daily life say she is exposed to a constant strain by day and night. Much of her time is occupied in consoling her husband and in inspiring him with courage. She prepares food for him, as he is in constant fear of poison, and assists at every detail of his toilet, since he mistrusts every act of his servants; she superintends his tailor and the laundress, as well as the barber, and attends to every want of her infant son, whom she rears herself. Formerly she left but little to the nurses to do, now, it is said, she scarcely allows the female attendants to approach the child's cradle. The czar is reported to have a greater fear for his son than for himself.

It is the heart, or spirit of man, that thinks out great things, solves great problems, and achieves great results along any lines whatsoever.

Unless your heart is in your work it will be done as routine work is usually done, no matter what the work may be.

A very respectable-looking book may be written out of the head, but it won't meet with the success, nor live nearly as long, as the one written from the heart out, even though it be commonplace to look upon.

Very many of the books of the day are written out of the head, and some of them out of very good heads, but for lack of heartsomeness they are not widely read, nor are they long remembered by those who do read them.

Luther Burbank, whose heart was ever in his work, got to thinking and wondering if it were not possible to so influence fruits that they could be made to grow as we would have them grow. Following the promptings of his heart, his thoughts led him into the secret of how this could be done, and through those material agents of his spirit, brain and hands, he has startled the world with his many new varieties of desirable fruits, and not a few combinations which practically amount to new fruits.

Whatsoever is in your heart to do may be done, if you have not neglected the training of your brain and hands.

* * *

Speaking of Burbank recalls the seedless apple, of which we have heard so much. The story, or at least some interesting facts concerning seedless apples, was given in a recent issue of the Country Calendar, from which the following extract is taken.

"The seedless apple question had its last turn in this country only 15 years ago, when it was fully dealt with by Prof. L. H. Bailey. As a matter of fact, this curiosity of horticulture was well known to all the old botanists and pomologists. And omitting hundreds of other references to seedless and bloomless apples, the record of Pliny may be quoted, who named the apple 'A conditione castrati seminis, quae spadonia appellant Belgae,' among those familiarly known to the Romas at the beginning of the Christian era. The facts are, therefore, about as follows: There is such a thing as a genuine seedless apple. Several varieties have been known and recorded from the time of Pliny, at least. They have never been considered of any practical value. The assertion that anyone is even on the way to produce a seedless Baldwin or Ben Davis and other useful and desirable variety is absolutely denied by those competent to express an opinion."

The Strain of the War.

The strain of the eastern war has been as severe as that of the South African conflict. It remains to be seen how its consequences will be felt by the successful and the defeated powers, and, in particular, what is going to happen to the huge political derelict, Russia, as well as to the European market, to which that country owes two billions of dollars, and to which it must owe much more if Japan imposes an indemnity.—Forum.

The Hereford Harvester.

"Here comes a Hereford," said an old farmer, as he saw a city boy coming down the road to work in the harvest field.

"Why do you call him that?" asked the farmer's wife.

"Because he has such a white face."—Kansas City Journal.

TALKED OF IN GOTHAM

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 30.—"Pittsburgh" is the magic word that causes people in New York to prick up their ears and think of millions. The case of Dr. John A. Harris, the broker, who dropped $12,500 to two men who claimed to be from Pittsburgh, but who probably never saw the city of steel, is but a sample. The broker met one of his friends in Europe, a chap who answers to the name of George Strosnider, and whose picture can be found in every complete rogues' gallery in the country. Strosnider talked of wanting to invest $250,000 of his "idle capital," and convinced the broker that he would be the man to handle the deals. Then he ran short of ready money and made a small touch for $12,500. Meanwhile he had introduced a friend, George Thompson, alias McGee, who is also well known in certain circles, and an attempt was made to secure $7,000 more. This was where the men made their mistake. Dr. Harris had gotten wise. He called in a lawyer and a couple of detectives, and the swindlers are now in "durance vile." This incident is only quoted to show what a magic word "Pittsburgh" is in certain circles in New York. There has been a good quantity of Pittsburgh small change floating around these parts, and nowadays it takes quite a bank roll for a man to float around on a Pittsburgh reputation. That is because Pittsburghers are known here as good fellows who are willing to part with their change when occasion requires. Not that they are "easy," nothing of the sort, they simply are willing to pay for the things they want. And it is this readiness to let go of money that makes the average Pittsburgher famous when he comes to New York. Most visitors to the big village look for the cheaper things of life, but the Pittsburgher wants only the best.

Frank McCoy in a Home of His Own.

Instead of being laid away in the potter's field at the expense of the city, "Big Frank" McCoy, the old-time bank burglar who died a few days ago at Bellevue, is now resting in a grave of his own, and with no mortgage on it, thanks to the kindness of some of his friends who were supposed to have forgotten him long ago. There was the usual morbid crowd of curiosity seekers in Calvary cemetery when the body was lowered into the grave this morning. Strange, isn't it, that people can take so much interest in a man who admittedly was never anything better than a thief after he reached the age of discretion?

No Cash Reward for Honesty.

Eben W. Gove of Nyack is another man who has discovered there is "nothing in" being honest, if one is seeking his reward on this planet. Gove is a trainman, and the other day he picked up about $10,000 worth of diamonds and such like baubles left in his train by a woman. Through John C. Eames, a Wall street broker, the woman sent Gove a check for $5 as a reward for returning her valuables to her. Gove read the letter that accompanied the reward, but sent back the check. He didn't want so much money for so little honesty. The worst of these small rewards for honesty is that it brings a feeling of contempt for those who feel that honesty is of so little value and deserving of so small a reward. In most cases, as in this, the honest man seeks no reward, but he doesn't like to be made to look cheap.

More Jobs for Political Workers.

By the re-districting of the city, just announced by the bureau of elections, there are 3,200 more temporary jobs for political henchmen for registration, primary and election days. There are now to be 1,984 election districts in the city, compared with 1,550 last year. The number of men who will hereafter be required to run an election will be about 16,000. The apportionment has been made on the basis of the last election, when 637,620 names were enrolled. The average number of voters to the district is 327. The new apportionment will take effect at the next primaries.

Derrick Needed for This Rescue.

It is not always the greatest fire that causes the most excitement. A little $1,500 blaze in Thirty-second street this morning caused all kinds of it. The chief reason was that on the fourth floor lived a man who weighs 260 pounds, and he was preparing toescape down a rope made of bed sheets when the firemen arrived. The long ladders were run up to his windows, but the big man was so weak from inhaling smoke that he had to be virtually carried down by the firemen. The great crowd that gathered cheered wildly as the heavyweight was finally stretched out on the pavement, perfectly safe and uninjured except for weakness caused by his before breakfast smokefest.

Dr. Mottet's Plan Is Approved.

There was a good deal of favorable comment heard today on the scheme of Dr. Henry Mottet, rector of the Church of the Holy Communion, to give Sunday afternoon outings to working girls. There will be excursions by train and boat to various points of interest, automobile trips, etc. The minister expects, however, that the young women will qualify for the Sunday afternoon trips by attending church in the mornings, most of whom do this already. Dr. Mottet has certainly hit upon an idea that will be very popular. The working girls of New York have a very hard time of it, and such pleasures as the Sunday afternoon excursions promises to be are very rare in their lives.

PICKED UP IN LOBBIES

Brobst in Town for a Day.

Frank A. Brobst, for several years proprietor of the Hotel Lincoln, came into the city yesterday afternoon and wrote his name on the register at the hotel. He put his residence as Mt. Clemens, Mich., to which place he will return today. Mr. Brobst is here to attend to minor details in the transfer of the hotel proprietorship to George Schmidt, the new proprietor and manager. He appeared in excellent health and said he was glad to be in Pittsburgh again, even if it is only for a day. He spent last evening with friends. Mr. Schmidt said the renovation of the Lincoln will be rushed along, and aside from the adding of three stories on which work will begin in September, there is no intention of enlarging by purchasing the lot through to Duquesne way and erecting a nine-story annex. There will be an English grill room, buffet and ladies' ratskeller in the basement. The main dining-room, an Italian garden on the first floor, will be ready to open July 15. The colonial room, to the right of the entrance, will be ready about August 1, and the Louis XV. room, to the left of the entrance, will be finished soon afterward. Private dining-rooms will be provided on the ladies' parlor floor.

Congressman Silent on Politics.

J. A. Goulden of New York, representative in congress, passed through the city last night en route from Cleveland to New York. At the Union station he was met by the Hon. Charles F. McKenna, United States district judge in Porto Rico, who is enjoying a vacation at his home here. Mr. Goulden was silent when politics was broached, saying that he did not care to discuss any phase of the subject. He was accompanied to New York by his son-in-law, A. B. Planchard, who leaves the Carnegie Steel Company to become identified with the United States Steel Corporation in the metropolis.

Seen at the Hotels.

Maj. John E. Stott of the state treasury department at Harrisburg, who is registered at the Hotel Henry, was met by several of his friends last evening. He says politics is a quiet subject about the capital just now and that there is more stir about prospective candidates for the governorship in Pittsburgh.

Charles F. Heidrick of Brookville, president of the Pittsburgh, Summerville & Clarion railroad, who is registered at the Hotel Newell, says that the new road is having an excellent business. Mr. Heidrick is in Pittsburgh in connection with private and company business.

Edward Booth of Christchurch, New Zealand, is registered at the Lincoln.

Will Inspect New Bridge.

Beginning a few months since with only a handful of devoted individuals and a great idea, with no organization, no money, no meeting place, no prestige or leverage of powerful influence, the Los Angeles Fellowship has grown into a compact organization of over 1,000 contributing members, with 25 working committees, with activities along many lines, with a cash asset of $14,000, with a hearing in the public press, and with universal enthusiasm and limitless hopes and purposes. Articles of dress are now being extensively made of glass. A Venetian manufacturer is turning out bonnets by the thousand, the glass cloth of which they are composed having the same shimmer and brilliancy of color as silk, and, what is a great advantage, being impervious to water. The spun glass, when soiled, is simply brushed with a hard brush and soap and water, and it is none the worse for being either stained or soiled. The material is to be had in white, green, lilac, pink, and yellow, and bids fair to become very fashionable for evening dresses.—Chicago Journal.

There have been few big stories from the war correspondents since the fighting began—if the correspondents got to the front their stories were not permitted to go home—the censor has kept a veil over the big battles. Many people thought the day of the war correspondent was past. But Francis L. McCullagh will show that this is not so by his tremendous description of the great battle of

MUKDEN

He gives a vivid pen picture of one of the greatest battles ever fought, together with a story of life in a Japanese prison, where he was taken after his capture. Mr. McCullagh was an eye-witness of the battle of Mukden. He was with the Russian army and when the terrible retreat began he was captured, together with a division of Russian troops, and taken to Japan, a prisoner of war. There he wrote this story, bristling with human interest, which makes the conflict rise before the reader like a living panorama,

MASS MEETING HELD IN CELLAR

THREATS TO LEAVE THE ORDER

One hundred and fifty representatives of the Western Pennsylvania councils of the Royal Arcanum held an indignation meeting in an old cell room in the basement of Allegheny city hall last night and entered fiery protests against the supreme council of the order and its decree to raise the rates of the insurance schedule. The Pennsylvania grand council was denounced as a "go-between," being likened to the Philadelphia gas syndicate, and something that should be immediately overthrown. Resolutions were adopted in which it was stated the new rates were excessive and inequitable and the confidence of the rank and file of the members of the order had been betrayed.

"We have either been told a tissue of lies or else we have been robbed," declared W. H. Sharah of Braddock, and his remarks expressed the sentiments of every man who attended the session.

The meeting was held in the stifling old cell room, because no better place was available. A committee of three, selected from the Allegheny councils about two weeks ago, had issued the call for the meeting, and circulars were sent out by F. P. Kohen, collector for Allegheny council, summoning the members of the local councils to meet in Allegheny Carnegie hall.

The Hall Was Dark.

At 8 o'clock last night 400 members gathered at the hall and found it dark. The watchman on duty said the engagement for the meeting had been canceled. He added he had no authority to open the doors on his own account. The crowd rapidly dwindled, but 150 of the more determined members resolved to hold a meeting. Kohen was called up on the telephone at his residence, but he gave them no answer. A committee was sent out to find a hall. They went to see the Turners, Grand Army men and the market master, but came back discouraged.

"We'll meet right here on the steps and draw up resolutions that will convince the higher authorities we'll not be fooled," said L. L. Todd of Edgar Thomson lodge of Braddock.

The suggestion was well taken and somebody was sent to procure lanterns. Instead they saw John Glenn, acting superintendent of police, who offered the old room in the basement of City hall. It was a lucky find, and the members marched over and took possession. Those who could not get seats on the dilapidated benches stood up around the room, the tall ones bending low to prevent bumping their heads upon the ceiling.

Used Piano Box for Desk.

W. J. Gill or Federal council, Allegheny, was elected chairman, and Mr. Todd was named for secretary. A committee on resolutions was appointed and it adjourned to the store room in the rear. There were no desks or chairs, and the committee congregated around an old piano box. Where a moment before the janitress had emptied a sackful of paper and refuse from the mayor's office. But it served the purpose and the resolutions were soon drawn.

Remarks upon the adoption of the resolutions called forth a storm of indignation. Mr. Sharah was the first speaker.

"This curse of the Royal Arcanum," he said, "is the go-between; that is the grand council of each state which acts between the subordinate lodges and the supreme national council. It is of no more use than nine wheels on a wagon. Abolish the grand councils and you will have no hot-air artists gallivanting around at your expense. The grand council officers are paid enormous salaries from the per capita tax which is levied upon us and enjoy junkets about the state at the expense of the subordinate councils. I could mention a number of instances to show where our money has gone. For example, I know of one of these state officials who drew a little sum of $4,000 for expenses on improvement to his office. His office was in his home and he bought rugs and mission furniture for his house. If the Royal Arcanum can abolish the grand councils it will be saved $800,000 a year which is expended in maintaining the 30 grand councils in as many states. The whole thing reminds me of the Philadelphia gas steal, except that the Quaker city grafters could learn a whole lot from this bunch."

Trying to Place the Trouble.

Mr. Todd declared that much of the trouble was due to the fact that the officers of the supreme council were not representative of the order's membership, and that in the election of the grand councils the members of the subordinate councils were not as circumspect as they should be.

"I know of one election which was slated and practically fixed up in the Union club of Pittsburgh before a ballot was cast," he added, in conclusion.

Chairman Gill at this juncture made a few remarks in which he characterized the grand council officers as the "grand dukes," and the nickname won applause that lasted several minutes.

Other members were heard from. It was shown how the rate for men over 65 years of age was raised nearly 350 per cent, and it was asked what was to be expected in the future if the precedent is followed. The proposed schedule will go into effect next October.

The suggestion was then made to ask the grand council to call a special session of the supreme council and to insist on a fair rate or "else abandon the whole outfit and organize a new order." R. J. Malone of Etna council made a motion to make the organization permanent. It was carried amid cheers.

After it was agreed to hold another mass meeting at the call of the chair, and a vote of thanks was extended to Supt. Glenn, the meeting adjourned. The resolutions follow:

Red Hot Resolutions Adopted.

Whereas, The supreme council of the Royal Arcanum having decreed a new schedule of rates for insurance in said order, to become effective on October 1, 1905; and,

Whereas, A joint meeting of the councils in the vicinity of Pittsburgh, called to meet in Carnegie hall, Allegheny, on the evening of June 30, for the purpose of discussing and protesting against said decree, which meeting was largely representative of all of said councils, but owing to inability to gain admission to that hall many had left before another meeting place in City hall could be secured, notwithstanding this difficulty, members were present from the following councils: Federal, Everett, Darling, Valley City, Evergreen, Pittsburgh, Wilmerding, Etna, Wilkinsburg, Waynesburg, Edgar Thomson, Electric, Allegheny and New Castle, who, regardless of inconvenience, in the absence of those responsible for the call of the meeting, were determined to protest against the said decree; and,

Whereas, We, as representatives from said councils, believe that said decree is unjust, inequitable and a betrayal of our confidence in the order for the following reasons: Said decree is unjust in that it imposes a prohibition rate upon those members who are advanced in age and served the order faithfully and well and sustained it for many years. It is inequitable in that it is not an equal distribution upon the members. If we are to depend on the published financial statement, no change is necessary. If more resources are necessary, we would suggest a reasonable and uniform percentage of increase of the present rates of assessment. It is a betrayal of our confidence in that it has been officially stated repeatedly that the present rates were based upon actual experience and would meet all requirements, as no change could possibly be required. Therefore, be it

Resolved, By the representatives from said councils here assembled, that we petition the grand council of Pennsylvania and join with other grand councils in requesting a special session of said supreme council to revise said decree, believing that unless said decree is revised along equitable lines it means the death knell of the Royal Arcanum, as a majority of the members are already considering withdrawing from the order unless a just revision of said decree is made soon.

ALLEGHENY'S BIG JUBILEE MAKES HEARTS LIGHTER

North Side Directors Scout the Idea That Cherished Old Custom Is Dying Out—Four Schools Attend.

"Where is the traitor who says the Allegheny school jubilee is a thing of the past?" asked Adam Hoffmann, one of the directors of the Sixth ward school, while he stood in the midst of 1,700 jolly youngsters in the Allegheny parks yesterday afternoon. Right under his nose seven games of Copenhagen were in progress. More than 1,000 children were gulping lemonade. The toy balloon man had sold out, the peanut boy had gone after a fresh stock, and the pop counter was as dry as the Sahara.

Somebody in the morning had declared that the Allegheny school jubilee was dying out, and that a few years hence would see the ancient North Side custom abandoned. This aroused Mr. Hoffman and all his fellow directors, as well as the school officials in other of the Allegheny wards, who take pride in maintaining the jubilee and all its sacred traditions. Yesterday only the Second, Fourth, Fifth and Sixth ward schools participated, but as it was the parks were so crowded that there was scarcely standing room. The other Allegheny schools this year held picnics at out-of-town resorts. There were not less than 15,000 persons in the park during the afternoon.

"Look around you and you will see people who attended jubilees on this very spot 50 years ago," said Mr. Hoffmann. "They enjoy the day quite as much as the little folks. They played the same games, just as the children are doing. They are here now with their grandchildren. Wouldn't it be a shame to have them go away off to some strange grove in the country away from this cherished and historic environment? It is very nice, of course, for some of the schools to vary their programs by going to the country, and their going gives more room and makes those at the jubilee more comfortable, but Allegheny certainly shall lose her patriotism if she discontinues her annual jubilee."

While Mr. Hoffmann spoke the drum corps of the Sixth ward Girls' brigade marched into the park, leading a delegation of 1,700 pupils of that school. Under Drum Major Lizzie Richter the little girls played a sprightly tune and the school received the cheers of their comrades from the Second, Fourth and Fifth wards. Each ward had its own band and tent and nearly every room organized its own game of Copenhagen. It was remarked that the girls showed little energy in running and they were kissed with impunity.

The familiar scenes of 20 years ago were repeated again and again. There was the same old crowd of red-eyed, unhappy infants who were looked after by the big policeman who is entrusted with the care of the "lost children." There was the gallant youth and the "spoony" girl who tries to look "sweet 16," the tomboy girl and the bashful, red-headed boy, the "fresh kid," and the bully. All received their just rewards. The lost were returned to their parents, the gallant youth was allowed to take the "spoony" girl home at nightfall, the tomboy tore her new white frock and went away in mortal fear of a scolding, the bashful, red-headed chap learned to play Copenhagen, the "fresh kid" fell into the lake and the bully got licked.

AGED CONDUCTOR DIES UNDER WHEELS OF TRAIN

John Sloan, Who Refused to Take Andrew Carnegie's Pension Meets a Tragic Death.

John Sloan, one of the oldest railroad men between Altoona and Columbus, was almost instantly killed yesterday morning by the caboose of a freight train of which he was conductor, on the Bridgeville and McDonald branch of the Panhandle railroad. His dead body was found on the tracks near Junction 1 shortly after his train had passed. No one saw the accident, but it is surmised that he stumbled while on the front platform of the caboose and fell beneath the wheels.

Mr. Sloan was born in 1839 in Ligonier township, Westmoreland county, and at the age of 25 years entered the employ of the Pennsylvania railroad as a brakeman on one of the construction trains when the old Union station was being erected. His train carried stones that were used in building the wall along Liberty street. He was soon promoted to conductor.

Mr. Sloan was among those who worked for the Pennsylvania railroad during the superintendency of Andrew Carnegie, and he was eligible to the pension offered by Mr. Carnegie to railroad men who worked under him. But when Mr. Sloan found he would have to quit the road in order to take advantage of the pension, he rejected it. During his 41 years on the rail he had had but one serious accident—a head-on collision in which several other trainmen were hurt. He himself escaped injury.

For many years Mr. Sloan lived in Broadway extension, Carnegie. He was a member of the Free Methodist church in that borough, and was for 20 years superintendent of the Sunday school. Always while at work he carried a pocket edition of the Bible, and his habit of singing, humming or whistling a hymn, was a familiar one to the men with whom he worked. At the age of 21 Mr. Sloan married Miss Bella McCune of Westmoreland county, who survives him, with these children: James, Seymour, William and John Sloan, Mrs. James Hiles and Mrs. Harry Thompson, all of Carnegie. He also is survived by these brothers and sisters: Joseph Sloan, Mrs. James Galbraith and Mrs. Emile Burcher, of Johnstown; Frank Sloan, New Kensington, and Mrs. Nathan Griffith of Ligonier. He leaves 15 grandchildren.

Thomas Gulitzitch, who is alleged to have stabbed James Zidzunas, June 14, at McKees Rocks, yesterday was held by the coroner's jury to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of murder. The men had a quarrel in a saloon and later met outside when the stabbing occurred. Zidzunas died at the McKees Rocks hospital June 20.

W. J. Roach, a brakeman on the Panhandle railroad, was killed at Carnegie by a train yesterday, by falling off a box car under the wheels.

Mrs. Georgia Butler, colored, of Swissvale, died yesterday at Mercy hospital from blood poisoning caused by stepping on a nail several weeks ago. She was 55 years old.

James Kidder, aged 2, of Carson and South First streets, was scalded to death yesterday at his home by falling into a tub of water. He was playing in the kitchen and stumbled into the tub, dying a few hours later.

John Kirtney, an employe of the steel works at Clairton, who was struck in the chest by a large weight on June 19, died yesterday afternoon at the McKeesport hospital.

John Moreland, a negro, aged 28, of Sewickley, was found drowned opposite Quaker Valley station yesterday. In taking a short cut to Sewickley he started to go under the Ft. Wayne railroad tracks through a culvert, and is thought to have fallen into a deep hole cut by a small stream flowing into the river. His sister-in-law, Mrs. Jane Moreland, says the last time she saw him was on Saturday night.

John Race, aged 9 years, of Munhall, was struck by an East Pittsburgh car yesterday and died two hours later. He was hanging on a wagon and jumping off at Eighth avenue and Martha street, Munhall, ran in front of the car.

RETAILERS WILL BREW THEIR BEER

Saloonkeepers of the County Organize a Brewing Company With Capital of $400,000.

SAY THEY'RE WITHIN THE LAW

The Mutual Union Brewing Company was organized in Pittsburgh yesterday. The stockholders of the corporation are all retail liquor dealers and the majority of them do business in Allegheny county. The brewery will be in Irwin, Westmoreland county.

The company is to be capitalized at $400,000, the stock selling at $100 a share. The brewery will have a capacity of 250,00 barrels a year. The plant is to be in operation within the year. Already agreements have been entered into to take over one-fifth of the output. By the time the capital is fully subscribed a market for the entire annual brew will be assured.

The officers of the company are Charles S. Black, president; P. H. Nolen, vice president; Theodore Huckestein, secretary, and John Lauler, treasurer. The directors are Charles S. Black, P. H. Nolen, Theodore Huckestein, John Lauler, Peter Steurnagle, John A. Dixon, Richard McCormick, William Zinkham and Joseph McLaughlin.

Stock Held by Retailers.

The stock cannot be purchased by a man who is not an independent retail liquor dealer. Every subscriber has to agree to sell a certain amount of the brewery's product each week. So far about $170,000 worth of the stock has been subscribed. These stockholders have signed an agreement to take 85,000 barrels of the annual output. The men who are promoting the enterprise are not guaranteeing any fixed rate of dividends. They believe, however, the profits will be large. They argue this will be possible because the entire output of the plant will be taken by the stockholders and it will not be necessary to employ men at high salaries and liberal expense accounts to solicit trade. It is claimed the beer can be sold to the retailers at a much less rate than it can now be purchased from the local breweries. The promoters of the enterprise have considerable money invested in the retail trade. They are old residents of the county, with the exception of Mr. Nolen. He organized the big Central co-operative brewery in New York. It is his intention to take up his residence here and make Pittsburgh his home.

Not Evading the Law.

There has been a good deal of talk about the danger the retailers are taking in engaging in the brewery business. The Brooks law prevents the saloonkeeper from being interested in a brewery in the same county in which he holds his license. The retailers who have organized this brewing company say they are not seeking to evade the law by locating their plant in Westmoreland county. A state license will be secured for the brewery and the stockholders intend to apply for renewals of their retail licenses in this county next year. They argue they are engaging in a legitimate business and do not expect trouble from the local courts when the situation is properly explained.

The advice of a number of prominent lawyers has been secured. The attorneys say there is no evasion of the law. It is claimed the question has been ruled on by the Allegheny courts. A Pittsburgh saloonkeeper who owns stock in several breweries in adjoining counties, has been setting forth this fact in the affidavit accompanying his application for license. The judges have not questioned his right to hold the stock and continue in the retail trade. A similar brewery is being operated in Philadelphia and the retailers say the license court has not interfered.

The promoters of the Mutual say it is not their intention to enter into a beer war with either the Pittsburgh or Independent Brewing companies. They argue the operation of their brewery will have a tendency to kill off the plan of promoting independent plants for the purpose of selling them out to the big combines.

FIRE BUREAU SUPPLIES.

Mayor Wyman and Director Scandrett of Allegheny Award Contracts for Aerial Trucks and Fire Hose.

Mayor Wyman and Director Scandrett of Allegheny yesterday awarded the contracts for apparatus and appliances for the fire bureau. The prices submitted by the bidders, the director said, are as moderate as could be expected.

The Seagrave Fire Apparatus Company, Columbus, O., received the contract for a 75-foot aerial truck to replace Truck A, now worn out. The only other bidder was the La France Company, Elmira, New York, which bid the same price, $4,600. The La France Company got the contract to furnish a 60-foot aerial truck with chemical extinguisher attachment for No. 11 engine house. The price is $4,400.

The Fabric Fire Hose Company, New York, received a contract to furnish 1,250 feet of hose at 90 cents a foot, and the Eureka Fire Hose Company of New York got a contract for 1,250 feet at the same price. The Gamewell Police and Fire Alarm Telegraph Company, New York, will furnish an automatic circuit tester for $2,500.

Attorney for Bankers' Corporation Frankly Tells Court Why a Receiver Is Wanted.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 30.—The affairs of the United States Bankers' Corporation, the organization of which former Secretary of the Treasury John S. Carlisle, was until recently president, were today brought up before United States Circuit Court Judge Lacombe. An order was served on the officers of the corporation, which holds its charter from the state of Maine, to show cause why a receiver should not be appointed.

Willis J. Parks, the complainant in today's proceedings, stated through counsel that he and others subscribed to the capital stock; that the corporation never received a dollar of income, other than from the sale of stock, and that over $50,000 had been paid out for salries. There remained in the city, Mr. Parks asserted, about $20,000 in cash, and a note for $10,000 which the debtor wanted to pay. That this remaining sum and assets might not be further dissipated, he asked Judge Lacombe to appoint a receiver.

"But," said Judge Lacombe, "it's a Maine corporation. Your corporation is in that state, unless the corporation is insolvent or has judgments returned unsatisfied."

"It has not a debt in the world," interrupted the lawyer for the corporation, "and has $26,000 in cash."

"But we want to keep the officers—and there are now two sets of them claiming control—from spending this $20,000," explained Mr. Park's attorney.

"Then apply for a dissolution of the corporation in Maine," suggested the court.

"And in the meantime the assets will be gone. It doesn't own a dollar except in New York, and we think there is authority for the court to protect us by appointing a receiver, pending action for dissolution in Maine," persisted the attorney.

The court finally said it would take the papers and later pass upon them.

FLOATING POOL ROOM SAILS TO TUNE OF "GAMBLIN MAN"

Aquatic Defier of the Chicago Authorities Carries Out Another Crowd of Sports to Bet on Races by Wireless.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, June 30.—With 700 spectators aboard the "City of Travers," the floating pool room palace, steamed out of the harbor on her second betting trip at 12:50 o'clock this afternoon, with the band on the forward deck merrily piping "The Gamblin' Man."

More than 500 "sports" were on board, and the management announced that 1,000 bettors would be carried tomorrow afternoon. The wireless apparatus was tested and worked perfectly. As the steamer left the South Water street pier the bar was thrown open to the passengers and two mixers were kept busy serving drinks.

Everywhere on the boat—from "Bud" White to the poorest "piker"—confidence was expressed that the boat and all on board were immune from interference from Michigan or Illinois authorities. The prediction is freely made that Lake Michigan will soon be dotted with other "floating pool rooms" when the success of this latest venture of the Smith-Perry-White combine is assured.

The gamblers made no move to play the races as the boat swung along the Hyde park shore. "Bud" White gave out the word, "nothing doing for a while, boys." Most of the sporting men crowded the upper deck and watched the shore line receding while they glanced over the charts.

Finally there was a hurried move from easy chairs on the upper deck.

"They are off at Coney Island," was the cry which went up from the announcer. Bets were then made on all races, and many thousands of dollars changed hands. There was no interference from either civil or federal authorities, and sports laugh at what they term "idle threats."

DYING OF HIS HURTS.

Theophilus Jaworski Sees His Wife and Children for the Last Time.

On Sunday Mr. Speakman had an attack of rheumatism and yesterday about noon complained of feeling ill. MR. ROCKEFELLER MAKES A BIG GIFT

Gives Ten Million Dollars for Higher Education in the United States.

SCHEME OF BENEVOLENCES

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 30.—Ten million dollars, it was announced today, has been given to the General Education board, of which Mr. Robert C. Ogden is chairman, by John D. Rockefeller, as a fund to be an endowment for the higher education in the United States. This brings the total gifts by Mr. Rockefeller for educational purposes up to $46,000,000.

It is also announced that the new endowment is to be used in furthering education throughout the country without distinction of section or religion. Mr. Ogden is well-known as the resident partner and manager of the Wanamaker New York store, and has been identified with educational work for many years. The work that has interested him specially during the last few years has been among the poorer classes of the south, and as president of the Southern Educational conference he has done much to elevate the condition of the negro and the illiterate whites.

While Mr. Rockefeller has given a great deal toward educational institutions, he has given a large share of his contributions to churches. His pet scheme, which almost seems like a hobby, is to offer a large monetary gift to some institution or church on condition that the sum is duplicated through its own efforts.

Must Work for Reward.

In the opinion of many it has been Mr. Rockefeller's idea to impress the recipients of his munificence with the fact that he does not intend to have them sit still, as it were, while he contributes toward their support, but that they must "get out and hustle" a little themselves.

The only educational institution which has escaped this rule is the University of Chicago, which has received a larger amount than any other. More than $13,000,000 has been given by Mr. Rockefeller at various times to this college, which has become one of the wealthiest in the world through his gifts.

In September, 1899, Mr. Rockefeller told the heads of Brown university that he would give $200,000 to the institution if a similar amount was raised within a certain limit of time. All but a few thousand dollars of the sum agreed upon was raised, but when the time limit had expired Mr. Rockefeller refused to award the sum offered. He, however, gave an extension of time, and a wealthy man came to the rescue, making up the deficit. The efforts and success of the college met in raising the $200,000 needed so pleased the Standard Oil magnate that he contributed an additional $75,000 to the sum he had already given.

His Aid Never Refused.

Mr. Rockefeller's gifts have been placed where he thought they would do the most good. He has always readily responded to appeals when he thought they were worthy, but on several occasions has refused the most urgent requests where he has thought the money could be raised by a little effort. Smaller universities and colleges have benefited by his generosity to the extent of sums ranging from $100,000 to $200,000. In all over 30 educational institutions have been given lumps of the Rockefeller fortune.

None of Mr. Rockefeller's gifts to schools have been refused, nor has any criticism of them been made save in the case of the University of Nebraska to which he gave $765,000. Some Nebraskans protested against the acceptance of this money, but their protests were unheeded. The general education board is an organization providing for the betterment of higher educational ideals and conditions throughout the United States. According to its charter it is able to promote all manner of educational institutions throughout the country, and is so constituted that its funds may be distributed wisely. It has been in operation three years.

Thus far the funds of the organization have amounted to $1,500,000, the income from which has been utilized for promoting college and university education.

BIG TRACTION EARNINGS.

Philadelphia Rapid Transit Did an Enormous Business Last Year, With $16,000,000 Receipts.

PHILADELPHIA, June 30.—(Special.)—The fiscal year of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company ended today. In the year Rapid Transit carried more than 400,000,000 passengers. Its total receipts amounted to at least $16,200,000. After paying interest and dividends on $100,000,000 or more of underlying bonds and stock, the rapid transit company earned a surplus of about $227,00.

As a result of the ordinance introduced in councils Thursday, looking toward underground trolley wires, the shares of Rapid Transit were freely sold yesterday morning, and they declined. Later, however, inside brokers bid up the price nearly $1 a share. One block of 1,000 shares was sold at 28⅝.

GLADDEN CRITICISES STANDARD MAGNATE

He Thinks the Object of Rockefeller's Gifts Is to Make Some Needed Friends.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

COLUMBUS, O., June 30.—"I think Mr. Rockefeller wants friends very badly and is doing all he can to get them," said Dr. Washington Gladden today, when asked for his opinion on the gift of $10,000,000 of the Standard oil king to Robert C. Ogden's general education board.

"Oh, it's Rockefeller again," he sighed, as the subject was broached. "I thought I had heard enough of him. I have no interest whatever in his latest gift. When he gave to the American board of missions, a congregational institution, I, as a minister of that denomination, had a right to protest, and I did vigorously, as I shall continue to do, but I would be 'mixing in' to say anything about this latest gift." The general education board is strictly undenominational," he continued, "and is very active in the education of the people of the south.

"It has no connection with the American board of missions, of which I am a member, nor with the congregational church. I guess Mr. Rockefeller is trying to buy friends with his wealth," said the doctor, in conclusion.

GOING TO PORTLAND.

Drs. Barchfeld and Hersman Will Represent Medical Society at National Meeting.

Dr. A. J. Barchfeld, the new congressman from the Thirty-second district, and Dr. C. C. Hersman, representatives from the Allegheny County Medical society to the meeting of the American Medical society which will be held in connection with the Portland Lewis and Clark exposition this month, will leave for the coast next Wednesday. Dr. Hersman will be accompanied by Mrs. Hersman and their daughter, and Mrs. Durr, and Dr. Barchfeld will be accompanied by his son, Elmer Barchfeld, his niece, Miss Emma Neuenberger, and Alderman David J. McGarey.

Congressman Barchfeld has an important assignment in connection with the meeting of the American society. He is to appear before the legislative section of the society for the purpose of receiving suggestions as to the course to be pursued with reference to the national health bill which he proposes to introduce in the next congress, and which has as one of its features the creation of a cabinet position that shall have to do with the safeguarding of the nation's health. He has already had much correspondence with noted medical authorities regarding this important matter and expects the question to become a very live one before the national body of practitioners.

Soon after his return from the Portland meeting Congressman Barchfeld will sail for Brussels to attend the international peace conference. He has already engaged passage on the steamer New York.

PHILADELPHIA, June 30.—(Special.)—William Meyers, chauffeur of the automobile that killed five-year-old Eldon Saver on Monday night, appeared before Magistrate Eisenbrown in the central police court this morning. After hearing the statement of Special Officer Williams the child slayer was remanded to the county prison without bail to await the action of the coroner, who will hold an inquest into the death next Monday morning.

KEEPING WITHIN LINES OF PARTY

Effort Is Made to Re-Form the Republican Organization of Philadelphia.

MR. DURHAM IS PLEASED

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau,
Press Building,
PHILADELPHIA, June 30.

Entire reorganization of the Republican party in this city within the party lines is, according to Collector of the Port C. Wesley Thomas, the true solution of the present difficulties. This morning Mr. Thomas visited the mayor and after he left the latter's office, said:

"I do not believe in a coalition with the city party or any other party. Reorganization within the party lines is quite the proper thing and a simple matter. The city committee can be captured by Republicans and the party lines reformed without outside help.

"The nomination and election of men of the highest type of citizenship will be the aim of the new organization and there are plenty of such men in the Republican party from among whom we can choose and who are willing to serve."

George F. Little, a member of the legislature from the Third ward, was placed under $500 bail for court by Magistrate Eisenbrown this morning on a charge of complicity in election frauds. The warrant for the arrest of Little was issued by Magistrate Eisenbrown last evening and was based on an affidavit sworn to by Walter C. Abrams, a private detective. Little was notified this morning that the warrant had been issued and at once went to Magistrate Eisenbrown's office, waiving a hearing, and furnished bail in the sum of $500 for his appearance at court. The bond being given by Henry J. Trainor, of No. 890 South Front street.

Insurance Commissioner Durham today left for a ten-day outing at Moosehead lake in the Maine woods. Before leaving he had a short talk with Senator Penrose, who has temporarily deferred his vacation. Mr. Durham declined to discuss the political situation. He seemed to appreciate intensely the following paragraph from a speech made yesterday by Gov. Pennypacker at the meeting of the State Bar association:

"If it is true that a politician presides over the insurance department of this commonwealth, this is perhaps due to the fact that the heads of the insurance companies have reported to me—and they ought to know better than any other persons—that never before in its history has the work of the insurance department been so well conducted as by the present commissioner. Perhaps that is a sufficient reason for the one political star." CHESTER D. POTTER.

BAPTIST CHURCH PAYS AND BURNS A MORTGAGE

Ceremony Conducted With Great Solemnity in the Sandusky Street Church. Loving Cup for Dr. Woodburn.

The mortgage which has burdened the Sandusky Street Baptist church, Allegheny, for several years, was burned last night. The occasion was observed joyfully and the church was crowded with members of the congregation who had come to see the last evidence of the old debt go up in smoke.

The debt originally was for $12,000, but it had been reduced by payments until $4,000 remained. Great efforts were made to raise the money for the mortgage was to fall due today and recently the amount was contributed. Yesterday the holder of the mortgage was paid and a committee of the congregation went to the court house, saw the mortgage satisfied on the records and received the document.

Last night the congregation met to burn the mortgage. John A. Myler, the Rev. J. S. Hutson, the Rev. William J. Coulston, the Rev. J. W. Sproul, the Rev. Dr. B. F. Woodburn, the venerable pastor; the Rev. A. J. Bonsall, the assistant pastor, and the Rev. Dr. D. A. McClenahan spoke. Brief remarks were made by members of the congregation.

Then, amid great solemnity, Francis J. Torrance handed the mortgage to Dr. Woodburn. Dr. Woodburn gave it to Hugh Beals, aged 12, and Beals held the paper while Dr. Woodburn held a match to it. As the flames approached the boy's fingers he laid the document on a platter and when the last vestige of paper went up in smoke the congregation broke out in applause.

A silver loving cup, the gift of the congregation, was presented to the pastor, Mr. Myler making the presentation speech. Dr. Woodburn was much touched and responded feelingly.

Miss Jennie Cody, from the Baptist training school for missionaries in Philadelphia, was introduced to the congregation. For the next few weeks she will assist in the local missionary work of the church.

PUSH CARS OVER BANK.

Three Persons Suffer Slight Hurts Through Misdirected Efforts of Helpers.

The ill-directed efforts of some persons who were trying to push the cars on the miniature railroad at new Rock Point park resulted yesterday in the cars being rolled over an embankment five feet high. Three persons were slightly hurt. The park had a large crowd from the Grant schools, Pittsburgh, and 12 persons had boarded the cars.

The engine stalled and while it was being repaired the cars were detached. When ready to start again, some volunteers proceeded to push the cars up and instead pushed them over the bank. Mrs. August Reynolds, No. 418 Strawberry alley, suffered a broken collar bone; Adam Heckler, janitor, Grant school, had his back wrenched, and Mrs. Kate Lynch of Wick street was somewhat bruised. A physician looked after the injuries.

CRAZED WITH GRIEF OVER WIFE'S MURDER

COSHOCTON, O., June 30.—(Special.)—Simon Hughes came in from Cooperdale this evening and before Justice of Peace M. Wimmer filed formal charges against Henry Dickerson, accusing him of murder of the prosecutor's wife, Katherine Hughes. Hughes is almost insane over the loss and his bitterness against Dickerson, whom he has openly accused ever since the finding of his wife's body. "I believe tonight will end it all," he said. "If I say the word I can raise 500 armed men from my neighborhood and sweep down upon the jail and save the county useless expense in trying to give the dog a decent man's chance for his life." Dickerson, who is a mild looking man, declares his innocence.

STARTS ROW BETWEEN SCHOOLS OF MEDICINE

Homeopathists and Eclectics Claim They Have Not Been Fairly Treated in the State Examinations.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, June 30.—By changing questions, prepared by the state medical council, to be put to graduates of the medical colleges, who are seeking state certificates, Dr. Henry Beates, president of the state board of examiners, has stirred up a hornet's nest in the camps of the homeopathists and eclectics, who claim that he favored the students of his own school of medicine in making the alterations.

The principal cause of the complaint is that Dr. Beates, without consultation with the other members of the medical council, made certain questions easier than prepared by the council, and gave the new questions to all the students of his own school of medicine and did not even give notice to either the homeopathists or the eclectics. He telegraphed the news of the changes to Pittsburgh, where an examination of alopathic students was going on, but did not send word to the examiners of the homeopathists who were holding their examinations in this city. Neither did he take the trouble to notify the eclectics, who were holding their examinations in Harrisburg.

"All we ask is a square deal," said a leading homeopathist.

This proceedure, the others say, gives the students of the old school the advantage of higher marks and makes them appear superior to those of the other schools as it is generally understood that all the students are asked the same questions. Those who have the new and easier questions to answer naturally get better marks than the others.

The questions for the state examinations are prepared by the state medical council. This body is composed of the presidents of the state boards of the three schools of medicine, and the president of the state board of health as medical members. There are also four lay members, who are all state officials. The lay members have nothing to do with the preparation of the questions. Each member of the state board prepares a set of questions in the particular branch which is his specialty.

Each president has prepared the copies necessary to supply the students on examination day. In the case of the homeopathists these copies are made by a member of the state board, on a typewriter so there can be no chance of a leak. The old school needing more copies, they are prepared by a printer, but every precaution is taken to prevent any of the copies getting out.

PRESENTATION TO ELKS.

Etna Lodge, B. P. O. E., Receives a Banner, Flag and Guidons.

Etna lodge No. 925, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, was presented last night with a banner, flag and guidons by the ladies of the order. The banner and flag were presented by William M. Benham on behalf of the ladies, and were accepted by Dr. W. F. Johnston, exalted ruler of the Etna lodge. H. W. Ochse was presented with the badge of past exalted ruler by Dr. G. A. Speer, trustee. Charles W. Ashley, district deputy commander, delivered an address, which was followed by a social session and a musical program, in which Miss Bertha Elszler, Mrs. C. C. That Cures When Doctors and Medicines Fail and Hope Is Gone.

HAS HE THE POWER DIVINE?

Ministers of the Gospel Say He Is Gifted of God, and Praise Him for His Help to Suffering Humanity—He Gives Service and Home Treatment Free to the Sick and Afflicted.

NEW YORK, June 29.—(Special Correspondence.)—Seeing is believing, and witnessing the seeming miracles performed by Prof. Wallace Hadley makes one exclaim: "Is there a known limit to this man's healing power? Is there a single disease he cannot cure? Is there any case so hopeless that he cannot restore health?"

Probably no other physician in the world treats as many patients as this famous professor of panopathy and physiactrics. They come to him by scores and hundreds. The sick and suffering, the lame and halt, the consumptive and paralytic, invalids from almost every known disease form an endless procession seeking health at his hands. And this wonderful man, this wizard of science, this great-hearted physician, receives them—treats them—cures them. Heals them of diseases pronounced incurable by the medical profession, cures them after they have been doomed to death by doctors, revives health and strength in the face of seeming impossibilities.

Not in a spirit of boasting or vanity, but in a quiet, calm statement of fact, he says there is no disease he may not cure; says it, and what is more, proves it. During a recent talk with this man who has revolutionised the theory and practice of medicine, he says: "Thousands of precious human lives are needlessly sacrificed every year by useless medicines and brutal surgery that kill oftener than they cure. All upright members of the medical profession know this whether they will admit it or not, and it is time that the general public was made aware of the facts.

"Cases have come to me that have baffled some of the best physicians in the country, where one doctor has said the trouble was with the stomach, another said heart, still another diagnosed kidney disease or something else. But in each case I was able to see the real cause and by removing it restored the patient to perfect health. I have known stomach trouble to be diagnosed as heart disease, and heart disease as rheumatism, and countless similar instances. When these mistakes are made and the patient is treated for the wrong disease, how can the sufferer hope to get well? It is as if you tried to cure deafness by wearing eyeglasses. One is just about as sensible as the other. But I make a careful diagnosis of each case that comes to me and treat the real cause.

"I have discarded the useless drugs and medicines commonly prescribed by physicians and use a system of treatment that is as much superior to modern medical practice as the sun is to a candle. Now that I have perfected it after many years of practice and experiments, I find that I have the power to cure my patients without their coming to me or my going to them. For instance, read this letter from the Rev. Samuel Sutton, an eminent divine of Williamsburg, Ky. You see he says: 'I feel thankful to God that I was directed to you for relief from my bodily pains and ills. I feel sure that our Heavenly Father has helped and directed you in working out the secret of power over disease. Your efforts must be accompanied by the Holy Spirit to accomplish such miraculous cures. I know your treatment for the release of suffering ones from pain, weakness and disease. I wish all suffering ones knew its power to heal as I do since it cured me of heart and kidney disease, catarrh of the bladder and hemorrhoids. Dear sir, I thank you and believe that there is nothing to equal your kindness to me in ridding me of all my physical sufferings. My prayers are that others may do as I have done, write to you and get relief, and that you may be joyful in abundance on earth and in the world to come for your faithful search and your success in finding such a wonderful power that when your treatment comes in contact with disease, illness must give way to health.'

"My experience has proved that there is no disease I may not cure. I do not care how severe the case may be, how chronic, how long standing, what other men have said or failed to do, or whether the patient has been pronounced incurable or not, I am just as ready to cure consumption, cancer, paralysis, Bright's disease, organic weakness, deafness and other so-called incurable diseases, as I am to cure stomach and bowel troubles, rheumatism, nervous prostration, blood disorders, catarrh, or any of the other ills that human flesh is heir to. I have done so many times over. Without intending to boast, I may safely say that I treat more patients in a year than the average physician does in a lifetime, and among them are numbered many of the worst cases in the country. And I cure because I have at my command a power over disease so great that its extent can hardly be realized. Recently I received this letter from Mrs. C. M. Weston of Barnegat, N. J., which will give you an idea of how many patients regard my power to cure: 'I am so glad to be able to tell you that I am well. I can hardly realize that I am cured. I had been told so many times by doctors that my case was incurable and that I could never get well that I was almost hopeless. Still, I always felt that if I could find a doctor who knew how, he could cure me, and I found him in you. Most doctors do not know how. I think they know a little about common diseases, but when it comes to the serious and difficult ones, such as mine were, they say they are incurable, and never learn anything about them. My restoration to health has surprised all who knew me. No one thought I was really being cured when I told them I was, but they see it now and cannot account for it. One of the doctors who attended me last winter was the most surprised of all, as he thought my heart trouble, complicated by bronchitis, asthma and catarrh of the stomach, would surely kill me before this. So you see how near death I was, and that you literally saved me from the grave. I also want to thank you for your personal interest and care of my case. Your kind words of encouragement did me a world of good when I was so weak. I am writing to all my friends who are ill, urging them to put themselves under your care, for I know you can cure them.' Another clergyman, the Rev. T. Morris, D. D., of Harwood, Tex., whom I cured of a complication of diseases, writes to me saying: 'I am much stronger and more active than I have been for years. I shall always thank God and you as His servant for the great benefits you have conferred upon me, and shall take great pleasure in recommending you as one of the most courteous, efficient Christian gentlemen whom I have ever known. I shall always hold myself ready to serve you as a beneficiary of your wonderful skill. Command me whenever I can serve you in anything. May God, our common Father, preserve you long in the land of the living.' I could go on indefinitely telling you of case after case similar to these, but these are sufficient to prove to any one that I have been able to restore health in the face of what seemed certain death.

"But how about those who cannot afford to come to New York to have you treat them?"

"It does not make the slightest difference. I cure them in their own homes just as easily and just as surely as if I went to them or they came to me. Distance cannot weaken the healing power I have. All that any one who is ill in any way, from any cause, has to do is to write me a letter, addressing Wallace Hadley, M. D., office 1052 W. 2255 Broadway, New York, telling me the disease they suffer from most or their principal symptoms, age and sex, and I will send them a course of home treatment absolutely free of charge."

"Surely you do not mean that you give services and treatment free to any one merely for the asking?"

"Yes, I mean just that. I believe that as a Christian it my duty to God and man to help all who are in need. When I have been given the power to cure I do not believe that I have the right to make any one waste his money on useless drugs when I can heal him without them. We all owe a duty to our fellow men. We must all serve in one way or another. Where a rich man gives money I give health. I am not a millionaire, but I am able to afford to do my share toward relieving the sufferings of mankind. I am happy to give freely of my services wherever they are needed. And I am especially anxious to cure any poor mortal who has been told that his or her case is incurable, that there is no hope left on earth. Or any one who has grown weary spending money on drugs and doctors in a vain search for health. If they will write to me and accept my offer there is not only hope, but an almost absolute certainty that they need be sick no longer. And it is a blessing that my power makes a letter do just as much good as a personal visit."

FUGITIVES FROM PANAMA BRING TALES OF HORROR

Declare Yellow Fever Cases Range from 40 to 60 a Week, Houses Are Rickety Hovels, and Food Vile—Police Chief's Body Arrives.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 30.—Fifteen employes from the Panama canal returned on the steamship Seguranca, in today from Colon, with 18 passengers. The Seguranca also brought the body of S. B. Davis, formerly of New York city, which was enclosed in a sealed metallic casket. Davis was the police chief of the canal zone. His widow accompanied the remains.

At quarantine the ship was held several hours while the passengers were examined. Three passengers were sent to Hoffman island for observation. They are John A. Warren, a miner, and Lamont Northrup, four years old, both of whom had suspiciously high temperatures, and the mother of the child. The Seguranca, after being fumigated, was released by the health officers.

The passengers brought ghastly tales of the conditions existing along the line

HANS WAGNER SHINES AS A STAR FOR THE PIRATES

PIRATES KEEP UP WINNING STREAK

Take Their Fifth Straight Game from the Cardinals by Lively Work With the Bat.

WAGNER STAR OF GAME

The Pirates kept up their winning streak at the expense of the St. Louis Cardinals, taking the opening game of the local series 3 to 2. It was rather hard sledding for the locals, who were forced to exert themselves to the limit and did not clinch the victory until the eighth inning was reached.

The game, which was played before 2,250 spectators, was largely a battle between pitchers Nichols and Case, and while neither put up what might be called sensational work, yet the pitching was the kind that made base hits few and far between. The ball, however, was rapped good and hard at all times. This made the fielders exert themselves, so there was plenty of action in almost every inning. The Pirates' star for the afternoon was Hans Wagner, who more than covered himself with baseball glory, and to his efforts more than any one player was the Pirates' victory due.

In the field and at bat Hans was a team in himself, scooping in all kinds of grounders in the field and at bat driving the ball to all parts of the enclosure. The clever work of the Carnegie boy is shown by the fact he scored two of the local's runs and batted in the other one. In the fielding and batting line Wagner had a good side partner in Ritchey, whose fielding was sensational and whose batting was also terrific, if not as timely as Wagner's. Ritchey had two hits to his credit, one a two-bagger that brought Wagner in with the first run and the other a three-bagger in the seventh inning, but it was wasted, as Ritchey could not get home.

The Pirates had at least two chances to win the game before the eighth inning, but good pitching by Nichols, backed up by clever fielding of the Cardinals, held the runners safe. In the fourth inning Beaumont led off with a single and Wagner followed with a double, making two on the bases with none out, and yet not a run was scored, as the next three batters were easy outs. Again in the seventh inning, with one out, Ritchey drove the ball to deep left field for three bases and yet could not bring the run home, as the following batters could do nothing with the stick.

The Cardinals were the first to score, securing a run in their half of the second inning. Beckley led off with a base on balls and scored on Smoot's drive to left field for three bases. The Pirates evened up in their half of the second, when Wagner led off with a two-base hit and scored on Ritchey's two-base drive to middle field. The Cardinals went into the fifth inning, when Josh Clarke led off with a single, went to second on a single by Shannon, took third on a sacrifice by Arndt and scored on an out at first.

There was nothing doing in the scoring line for the Pirates until the eighth inning was reached, and there the game was clinched. In this inning Clymer, the first batter up, was called out at first, although the ball was foul. Leach went out on a fly, but Beaumont made good by driving the ball to the right field fence for three bases, and he scored on Wagner's safe drive over the pitcher's head. Wagner at once stole second and scored the winning run on an infield tap by Howard, who beat the ball to first base.

Manager Clarke was still out of the game, Leach taking his place in left field, McBride covering third base, where he had not a fielding chance. Clymer was also back in the game, playing right field, giving Clancy a chance for a rest. The score:

READY TO RECEIVE BODY OF ADMIRAL JOHN PAUL JONES

American Squadron Under Sigsbee Arrives at Cherbourg Where the Distinguished Remains Will Be Embarked Under Armed Escort.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

CHERBOURG, June 30.—The American squadron, consisting of the armored cruiser Brooklyn, (flagship) and the protected cruisers Chattanooga, Tacoma and Galveston, which was assigned from the North Atlantic fleet and placed under command of Rear Admiral Sigsbee to escort to the United States the remains of Admiral John Paul Jones, arrived today at this port, where the remains will be embarked. On entering the harbor the Brooklyn fired a national salute of 21 guns and after the return of this salute from the arsenal, the flagship fired 15 guns in honor of Vice Admiral Besson, commander-in-chief of the French Northern squadron.

During the voyage Rear Admiral Sigsbee communicated by signal to the squadron all details for the landing of a guard of honor as an escort to the remains from Paris to Cherbourg. This escort will include more than 500 men under arms.

On board the Brooklyn a catafalque was completed on the port side of the gun-deck immediately forward of the admiral's cabin. The casket will rest on a wooden desk. Mourning curtains are draped in double folds, and the canopy on the inside is decorated with French and Russian ensigns and the American Jack, representing the three naval services in which Admiral Jones held commands. The casket will be draped with an American ensign and the catafalque with a silk American flag provided by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

PARIS, June 30.—President Roosevelt has appointed Gen. Horace Porter to be senior special ambassador of the United States in connection with the John Paul Jones ceremonies. As special ambassador it will be Gen. Porter's duty to arrange with the French government the details of the delivery of the admiral's body, and then to transfer the body to the junior special ambassador, Frank B. Loomis.

BEATS BIGELOW AND MAY LOSE JOB

PICTURE IN WASTE BASKET

A craze for fast horses has broken out among the officials at the Pittsburgh City hall, and it is said the intense rivalry which this craze engendered is the cause of one official being out in constant danger of losing a $4,000 job.

Director Bigelow has a trotter whose record is said to be 2:10¼, and there was no nag owned by any person in the municipal building that could approach it in speed until E. G. Nicewaner, superintendent of the bureau of highways and sewers, in a moment of indiscretion bought a speeder whose record was put at 2:17 to the mile.

One day Supt. Nicewaner rashly ventured to match his horse against Director Bigelow's and at that moment the superintendent's friends claim his troubles began. Whether by the fault of the director's driving or because of his horse not being in good form Mr. Bigelow was unable to pass or even to reach Nicewaner. The director is said to have been much displeased at the result of the contest and it was succeeded by a noticeable antipathy toward Supt. Nicewaner.

This feeling was intensified one morning when the director walked into his office. It is said he saw on his desk a photograph of Supt. Nicewaner, his horse and buggy, and the superintendent seated therein with his arms outstretched holding the reins as if in a race. The picture had been placed on the director's desk as a pleasant surprise. It proved to be anything but pleasant for the director. He sent the picture and frame into the waste basket with a crash.

City Clerk Minnemeyer has a fast traveler of which he boasts. John A. Long, superintendent of the bureau of city property, owns an expensive animal of which he modestly refrains from talking. John F. Steel has long been a lover of horses and on this account is a pronounced enemy of the automobile, which he is trying hard to tax. Mayor Hays will talk of horses by the hour to the exclusion of important public business, and he drives a horse or two that could show a good account on the race track.

PROTEST THE CHARTERS.

Two Parties Fight an Attempt to Build Traction Lines Down the Sewickley Valley.

The expected protests against the granting of charters to the six new companies formed to build trolley lines from Ben Avon to Ambridge, were made yesterday at Harrisburg.

One protest is signed by a large number of residents of the Sewickley valley, who allege no necessity for such lines, because of good service on the Ft. Wayne, damage of Beaver avenue by the proposed street car line, and the claim that the only purpose is to boom real estate values at Economy and Rochester.

The other protest is filed by James C. Chaplin, president of the Leetsdale Borough Street Railway Company, who asks for the refusal of a charter to the Ambridge, Leetsdale & Edgeworth Street Railway Company, claiming that the company he heads, as the prior applicant, has the exclusive right to seek a franchise over the route.

The applicants for the six charters are D. P. Black, W. H. Keech, W. D. Allison, E. B. Wilson and J. N. Jarvis. There is no attempt to deny that the charters are asked in good faith, and that the companies have the capital to carry out their plans.

The governor referred the protests to Frank M. Fuller, secretary of the commonwealth.

JUNE RUSH IS OVER.

Over 1,200 Marriage Licenses Are Taken Out in a Month.

The June rush to the marriage license office is over. When the office closed yesterday afternoon, 1,282 licenses had been taken for the month. Last year for the same period, 1,081 were issued and in 1903, 1,399 were granted. The year 1903 is the banner year of the marriage license office, there being 10,505 wedding permits issued. Last year there were 9,035 taken out and for the first half of this year ending last night there were 4,707 issued.

This year if gauged by this record, will exceed that of last year, but will not reach the record made in 1903.

HAVE SHUT DOWN THE UNION MILLS

American Sheet and Tin Plate Company Refuses Amalgamated's Temporary Offer.

SITUATION AGAIN CONFUSED

The offer of the Amalgamated association of Iron and Steel Workers to agree to the continuance of work under the old scale pending a settlement at the union plants of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company has been refused. This refusal is clearly indicated by a telegram to The Gazette last night from New Castle, Pa., stating that the big tin plate mill there would close at the third turn, the scale expiring at midnight. Similar action is expected elsewhere, as the policy of the company is uniform. Hence the situation which appeared clear on the day before has become complicated again.

The conference between the officials of the company and those of the Amalgamated yesterday resulted in a counter-proposition being put forward by the Amalgamated. This proposition provided that the old scales would be accepted and the limit of production of all commodities would be removed, if the company would continue the old footnotes and accept about a dozen new ones affecting minor matters of operation.

The officials of the company stated that they could not agree to these footnotes, as Cause 5 tied up the company on the time of starting the week's work (5 a. m. Monday.) Furthermore the company asked for an increase of the rebate on export trade goods from the present 1½ per cent to 3 per cent.

The outcome was the adjournment of the conference to meet on call of either side. Today the representatives of the Amalgamated will hold an all-day conference at the national offices to discuss the entire situation and outline a policy.

The delay in the completion of the conference with the American company has created a rather embarrassing situation as respects the independent manufacturers. The Amalgamated has started to hold its conference with the independent sheet steel tin plate companies when the American company signified its willingness to go into conference. The independents adjourned their session to allow the settlement of the scale with the leading interest. It was arranged that the independents and the Amalgamated should meet yesterday, but the continuance of the American company conference made this impossible. The result was that there were in the city a large number of independent manufacturers who were disappointed in their plans for a conference. Among these was Frederick G. Niedringhaus of St. Louis, president of the National Enameling and Stamping Company.

This fact will bring out one of the questions to be considered at today's meeting of the Amalgamated's officials. It will be determined whether the next conference shall be with the independent or the American company people.

Camp Will Be Pitched at Fairview on Lake Erie's Shore.

The Young Men's Christian Association of Western Pennsylvania will hold its annual encampment this summer on the Southern shore of Lake Erie at Fairview on the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad, from July 21 to August 3. There will be good bathing, baseball and athletics, camp-fire jollities and cross-country runs. Informal devotional meetings and Bible studies will be held under the direction of the leader, John M. Correy, general secretary of the Butler Y. M. C. A. The other officers in charge of the camp will be H. B. Rankin, commissary, Sewickley; Wilford C. McCarty, secretary, Pittsburgh, and Robert L. Wickline, treasurer, Sharpsburg.

The camp is open to all members of the Y. M. C. A. over 16 and applications, accompanied by $1 should be mailed to Secretary W. C. McCarthy, Seventh and Penn streets, before July 10.

SLOW ACCOUNTING.

Complaints Are Made Against the Auditors of the Defunct State Bank.

Claiming that there is $112,000 in the hands of Receiver John F. Steel and that he has been unable to distribute the money to the depositors, the victims of the failure of the State bank, Bloomfield, are beginning to raise trouble.

Their attacks are directed now against the two auditors appointed by the Dauphin county court, Albert Millar and Leroy Wolfe, the Harrisburg attorneys.

Receiver Steel said yesterday he had done all in his power to hasten the work because of the fact that most of the depositors are people who need the money. His hands are tied until the auditors' report has been filed and 20 days have elapsed for exceptions to be made.

TO SUE SLOCUM OWNERS FOR CARE OF VICTIMS

NEW YORK, June 30.—(Special.)—Suit will be brought by the city to recover $34,000 from the owners of the steamboat Gen. Slocum. The action will be instituted primarily to recover $34,000 spent by the city in recovering and caring for the bodies of the victims of the disaster. The real purpose of the suit, which is in the hands of Assistant Corporation Counsel Kindleberger, is declared to be to secure a construction of the law that will apply to all steamboats plying in inland waters.

BONAPARTE TAKES HIS OFFICE TODAY

Morton Turns Over Keys of the Navy Department to His Successor.

SELECTS AN OIL CITY MAN

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, June 30.

Charles J. Bonaparte of Maryland, who will tomorrow be sworn in as secretary of the navy, today received all the bureau chiefs of the department. Paul Morton, the retiring secretary of the navy, came to Washington today from New York and received Mr. Bonaparte at his office early this afternoon.

All of the bureau chiefs, with the exception of Chief Constructor Capps, who has been called away from Washington by the death of his father, called upon Mr. Morton, expressed their official and personal gratification at having served for one year under a fearless and energetic chief who in a quiet, but effective way, has almost silenced controversy in the service. They bade farewell to Mr. Morton with expressions of sincere regret at his departure, and with warmest hope for his future success and prosperity. Admiral Dewey was one of those who took leave of the secretary today, and from the admiral down, Mr. Morton's popularity was thoroughly demonstrated.

Mr. Bonaparte this afternoon received the chiefs of the various bureaus. They were presented in turn by Mr. Morton. Mr. Bonaparte has selected Henry C. Gauss as his private secretary. Mr. Gauss was at one time editor of the Oil City (Pa.) Derrick. For a time he was assistant enrolling clerk of the house of representatives, but when Mr. Moody became secretary of the navy, he took Mr. Gauss with him to the department, where the latter acted as confidential clerk to the secretary.

Secretary Morton today approved the report of the board of naval officers which selected the officers who are to be retired to create vacancies necessary under the naval personnel act. Fifty-seven officers, from the grade of captain down, have been named for retirement. The affixing of his signature approving the report was Mr. Morton's last official act. The report has gone to the president. The names were withheld pending receipt of the report at Oyster Bay.

STEEL MEN SCOUT IDEA OF INTERNATIONAL POOL

Rumor of Arrangement Between America, England and Germany Denied.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, June 30.—Dominant officials of the United States Steel Corporation scouted the idea of an international pooling arrangement between England, Germany and the United States, which, it was reported, had been formed to control the world's markets. Two officials who were asked concerning the report said that if such an arrangement had been made they were ignorant of its existence, and, further, they strongly disbelieved the report. W. E. Corey, the president of the Steel Corporation, it was said, had engaged in no business on his European trip.

The fact, however, that the leading manufacturers of England and Germany had approached the Steel Corporation more than a year ago with a view to entering into such a pooling agreement, has frequently given rise to the rumors that the deal has been made.

Officials of the Steel Corporation have frequently expressed the view that a pooling arrangement on the maintenance of prices in the leading import countries would be a judicious and business-like procedure. The pooling arrangements, as they were discussed a year ago, concerned only the large importing countries, such as South Africa, South American republics, China and the east and Australasia.

When E. H. Gary went abroad last summer it was reported that he had in view the consummation of the international pooling agreement. This report he denied to a correspondent in London. He said today:

"If the so-called pooling agreement on foreign markets has been made I know nothing of it. I strongly disbelieve the report."

CHAUTAUQUA

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., June 30.—(Special.)—The last of the month of perfect days was perhaps the most beautiful of all, and was responsible for larger audiences at the various attractions. The lecture of the day was given in the hall of philosophy by President Rush Rhees on "Culture of the Sense of Duty," and was in part as follows:

"Lawlessness is no modern development. From the earliest time men have believed that they may do what is right in their own minds. In reconsideration of the subject let us survey the influences which suggest it. The influences are of two sorts. The conscious and the unwitting. That disregard for actual legislation which we find in ordinary business worlds is in great contrast with the native regard for law held by our English cousins. That disregard for the actual statute is characteristic of our recent development. There is no element of modern life so fraught with danger as the employment by business men of legal talent to evade the plain intent of legislation and yet escape criminality.

"The advanced and most improved method of education is the outgrowth of the kindergarten idea. Play is chosen as the key to the best development of life. Do not think that I do not approve of the kindergarten method. I hesitate to speak of it lest I be misunderstood. But we must consider life as no kindergarten. We are confronted by stern realities. There is an unescapable responsibility resting upon parents and teachers in fitting a child for such life to-day. Give him the habit of responding to commands from without. Train him to understand that law is nature's final method of operation."

Ratify Purchase of Site.

The Young Women's Christian association yesterday morning ratified the action of the advisory board in the purchase of a site for the new association building at 57-59-61-63-65 Chatham street. This means the beginning of the realization of a long cherished home for the association, where it can conduct the work it has planned on broader lines than is possible in the limited quarters where it has been located ever since its organization. The property will cost $71,250, and already one-half of the money has been secured. The buildings now on the site will be razed and a strenuous effort will be made to secure sufficient money to commence building within the year. The new location is believed to be in the section of the city which is becoming an important business district. The general plans outlined for the new building will include a swimming pool and gymnasium, bowling alleys and baths, an assembly hall that will seat 500, rooms adapted to the meeting of women's clubs, one floor devoted to the serving of the noon-day lunch which has become an important feature of the work of the association, classrooms and committee rooms, reading room and library, and rooms which will be at the disposal of boarders. Already 50 applications have been received for the sewing classes which will be conducted during the summer. These will include dressmaking classes on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings; plain sewing on Tuesday and Thursday mornings; millinery classes, Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and draughting, Monday and Friday afternoons. The classes will be under the direction of Miss Laura I. Baldt, a graduate of Drexel institute.

Make Almost a Thousand.

Over $900 will be realized from the recent lawn fete and bazar of days which the Pittsburgh and Allegheny Free Kindergarten association gave on the grounds of the Kindergarten college. The women had hoped to make at least $1,000, but the heavy rain which fell late in the afternoon spoiled many of their plans. Though many people could not attend, the college building nevertheless was crowded and the two exhibitions of the poster tableaux given in the assembly hall were remarkably successful. The meeting of the association yesterday morning was the last until September. The president, Mrs. James I. Buchanan, presided and the various committees reported. A report was read by Miss Mary Parmley, of the Fifth Ward kindergarten, who described the progress of the children in the school in that district. It was decided to open two new kindergartens in September, but their location has not yet been determined upon. It is the usual custom to open two new kindergartens each fall.

Teachers' Institute Opens Today.

The teachers' institute conducted under the auspices of the joint committee of Women's clubs for the Allegheny playgrounds and vacation schools will open this morning in the Sherman avenue, Second ward, school, Allegheny. Sessions will be held today from 10 until 12 o'clock and from 1:30 until 3:30. This institute will continue throughout Monday during the same hours.

Meeting Is Postponed.

The regular monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Civic club, which was to have been held yesterday morning in the rooms of the club in the Methodist Book house, Penn avenue, was postponed until Thursday afternoon, July 6.

DIVIDENDS.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 30, 1905.
EXTRA DIVIDEND NO. 4—The directors of this bank have this day declared an ext

FLURRY IN CALL MONEY DID NOT AFFECT STOCKS

The Rate Rose to 6 and Declined to 3 Per Cent. Trading Less Active—Local Market Dull and Heavy and Prices Closed Lower.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The New York stock market yesterday was less active, the sales falling below 500,000 shares, the smallest for the week. At the opening the tone was heavy, but later in the day there was some recovery, and closing prices showed gains and losses well distributed.

The factors in the market were the approaching holiday, the uneasy feeling in foreign financial circles, and the advent of July settlements. The news from various Russian centers reported a very serious situation, with sections of both the army and navy in open rebellion. There were alarmist reports of the panic existing in Russian official circles and all the time the situation in Manchuria is apparently growing worse from the Russian standpoint. Still, the foreign markets did not display evidence of great disturbance. On the London stock exchange there were three failures of brokers operating in mining shares, and English consols were slightly lower. In Paris 3 per cent rentes declined, and closed 17½ centimes lower. Foreigners were sellers of American securities on balance, but their offerings were readily absorbed.

Another influence in retarding speculation was the uncertainty as to the course of the money market. The rate for call loans opened higher at 4 per cent and advanced to 4½ per cent bid, but at the lower figure one bank was a lender to the extent of $5,000,000. Later in the day the rate advanced to 6 per cent, but the supply was more than sufficient to meet the demand, and the rate declined to and closed at 3 per cent. It cannot be said that the rise in call loan rates had any serious effect upon stock market prices.

The whole iron and steel group was rather dull and heavy with the exception of United States Cast Iron Pipe common, which late in the session became very strong and closed at a gain of 1¼ per cent. United States Steel issues were not affected by the confirmation of the report that the corporation had closed a five years' contract to supply billets to the Pittsburgh Steel Company, although the transaction is an indication of faith in the future. The miscellaneous group of industrials closed only ⅛ to ¾ per cent lower.

In the railroad list the most active stocks were the Eries, which were very strong, closing ⅞ per cent higher for the common and first preferred, and 2½ per cent higher for the second preferred. The strength of the latter was based upon a rumor that the directors would declare a dividend on this issue at the same time action is taken on the first preferred. Reading common dropped from 99½ to 98¾, but recovered to 100¼ and closed only ¼ lower for the day. Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio each closed ⅛ lower. The Harriman stocks were less active and closed ½ lower for Union Pacific and ⅝ lower for Southern Pacific. St. Paul closed ⅝ higher and Atchison unchanged. The remainder of the railroad list presented little feature, with the exception of Ontario & Western, which made a strong rally and closed ¾ per cent higher for the day.

All the tractions were active and strong, with Metropolitan Street Railway closing 2¼ per cent higher and Metropolitan Securities 2 per cent higher. There were rumors of a deal for the retirement of Metropolitan Securities, and of the ultimate intention of the Ryan syndicate to solidify the traction interests of the metropolis, but similar rumors have been current for months past, and reliable information was as scarce yesterday as heretofore.

In the final dealings the market displayed a firmer tone than at the opening. Many brokers left during the day to be absent over the holiday on Tuesday, and the market is likely to remain dull today and on Monday. The preliminary estimates of the movements of currency during the week foreshadowed a small loss in cash in today's bank statement.

The local stock market was dull and heavy in tone and prices closed lower. Pittsburgh Oil & Gas broke to 55⅝ and closed with 58 the best bid. It is thought the decline foreshadows a reduction in the quarterly dividend from 2 to 1½ per cent. American Sewer Pipe was another weak feature, declining to and closing offered at 34, a loss of 1 per cent. Pittsburgh Coal common closed ¼ lower at 14⅝, and the preferred ¼ lower at 64½. The steel stocks were dull and fractionally lower. American Window Glass preferred sold at 40, an advance of 10 points over the sale last week. There were no transactions in Electric, and Airbrake sold unchanged at 150.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

The banks and trust companies of Pittsburgh will pay today in quarterly and semi-annual dividends very close to $1,400,000. In addition to the distribution to stockholders a considerable sum will be added to surplus and undivided profits. It order to maintain earnings, however, many institutions have been forced into the market for stocks and bonds during the past half year, because of the inability to employ funds in the regular way. Every year a larger number of Pittsburgh brokers and business men are enabled to go to the eastern market to supply a portion of their needs, and they do not hesitate to do so because the difference in rates is so great as to make it worth while. It is stated on good authority that one of the larger local trust companies seriously contemplated increasing its quarterly dividend at this time, but deferred such action because of the accumulation of deposits, on which interest is paid, but which it is impossible to employ at profitable rates.

The explanation for the decline in Pittsburgh Oil and Gas some time after the close of the market, when the directors met and declared a quarterly dividend of 1 per cent, being a reduction from 2 per cent quarterly, which has been paid for some time. The company issued the following statement explaining the action of the board: "The net earnings for the quarter ending June 30, after paying interest on the bonds, were $90,000, but not to draw too heavily on the cash assets of the company at a season of the year when the earnings are at their lowest point and to provide additional working capital, the directors have deemed it advisable to reduce the quarterly dividend from 2 per cent to 1 per cent. The assets of the company for the same period have been largely added to, and the prospects of increased business in the near future are excellent."

The Farmers Deposit National bank has declared a quarterly dividend of 6 per cent, payable forthwith.

Directors of the Westinghouse Machine Company have declared the usual quarterly dividend of 2½ per cent, payable July 10. Books close July 1 to 10.

The Treasury Trust Company, of which James S. Glass is president, declared an initial dividend of 1¼ per cent. The bank began business on December 8, 1903, and has been making very satisfactory progress. Its deposits have increased to about $2,000,000.

The Freehold bank declared a quarterly dividend of 6 per cent, a reduction of 4 per cent.

The Germania Savings bank declared the regular quarterly dividend of 6 per cent and an extra dividend of 5 per cent.

At a meeting of the directors of the Colonial Trust Company of South Sharon the regular dividend of 3 per cent and an extra dividend of 1 per cent were declared, payable today.

Window Glass Machine common was quoted at 6½ bid and the preferred at 25 bid, 28 asked.

A private sale of 1,000 shares Golden Anchor at 58 was reported, and that price was bid for more.

The German National bank of Allegheny has declared a quarterly dividend of 4 per cent, payable today.

The Fort Pitt National bank has declared a quarterly dividend of 2 per cent, payable today.

The Keystone National bank has declared the usual quarterly dividend of 2½ per cent and an extra dividend of ½ per cent, payable today.

The Allegheny National bank has declared a semi-annual dividend of 4 per cent, payable forthwith.

The Pennsylvania National bank has declared the usual semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent.

The National bank of Western Pennsylvania has declared the usual semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent, payable to stock of record June 30.

The Federal National bank has declared a dividend of $1 50 a share, payable forthwith.

The German Savings and Deposit bank of the South side has declared a quarterly dividend of 3 per cent, payable today.

The First National bank of Pittsburgh has declared the usual quarterly dividend of 4 per cent and an extra dividend of 2 per cent, payable today.

The Enterprise National bank of Allegheny has declared a quarterly dividend of 2½ per cent, payable today.

The Northern Liberties Bridge Company has declared a semi-annual dividend of $5 50 a share, payable forthwith.

The Traders and Mechanics bank has declared a semi-annual dividend of 2½ per cent.

The First National bank of Birmingham has declared a quarterly dividend of 4 per cent, payable on demand.

The Sewickley Valley Trust Company has declared a quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent.

The Third National bank of Pittsburgh has declared a quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent, payable July 1.

The Lincoln National bank has declared a quarterly dividend of 2 per cent and an extra dividend of ½ per cent, payable July 1.

The Washington National bank has declared a quarterly dividend of 2 per cent, payable today.

The dividend declared by the Diamond Savings bank was the regular 2 per cent quarterly, and not 8 per cent, which appeared through a typographical error.

The undivided profits of the Commonwealth Trust Company were increased about $21,000 from the earnings of the past quarter, after paying the regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent.

The American Steel Foundries Company management has decided upon a plan for financiering the company's cash requirements. The plan will be submitted to the board of directors at their meeting to be held on July 6. The company reports that it requires from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 in cash by reason of increased business and sales to finance the construction of a new plant at Indian Harbor, Ind., and for extensions and additions to other plants. A bond issue will be made to provide for the funds desired, the bonds to be offered to the stockholders for subscriptions.

A New York dispatch said: The United States Steel Corporation has with foreign manufacturers formed an international steel rail pool and made division of foreign markets. The result is that rails that could be had a month ago at $22 per ton delivered at Vera Cruz cannot now be purchased for delivery to the Mexican sea coast at under $28 50 per ton. It is understood that the Mexican market has been given over to the Belgians and the English manufacturers.

The return of New York trust companies to the state banking department under the call of June 7 was studied attentively in banking circles. The increase of deposits over a year ago of $248,315,724 and in loans of $278,966,749 is in line with the tendency disclosed by the comptroller's report on the national banks of the country. The decline in reserves in the case of the trust companies is even more striking than in the case of the national banks, the cash on hand being reduced by $4,537,570 and the cash on deposit with other institutions showing a shrinkage of $70,950,783.

A New York dispatch says: The refusal of the stock exchange authorities to comply with a petition of members to close the exchange on Monday did not alter plans on the part of many brokers to leave the city not to return until after the Fourth of July holiday. There was little disposition in view of this prolonged interval to extend new commitments, the tendency being rather to reduce outstanding lines. The actual liquidation induced was small and confidence is still professed in an early return of abundant ease in the money market after the turn of the half year. The rate for call loans yesterday, however, is the highest of the year thus far and exceeds that of the closing week of last year in the period of preparation for the annual settlements. Today's bank statement will reflect the week's gold exports, which are mostly responsible for the absorption from the market of sub-treasury operations. It is expected that the remittance of funds from the interior will largely offset this. On the other hand the preparations for the July settlements are expected to have involved a heavy loan expansion. Next week also there is to be met a call for syndicate payments of an instalment on the Western Pacific bond issue. The harder tone of the money market yesterday resulted in the appearance of bankers' finance bills in the foreign exchange market under which rates receded still further from the gold export point. The effect on the gold movement seems to be the only point of view from which Wall street regards the Russian internal situation with any degree of tension. The assemblage of such a force from Russian cities therefore was of little direct influence in the market.

Condition of the Treasury.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Today's statement of the treasury balances in the general fund, exclusive of the $150,000,000 gold reserve in the division of redemption, shows available cash balances of $191,425,267; gold, $108,853,326; silver, $27,268,398; United States notes, $4,166,254; treasury notes of 1890, $57,815; national bank notes, $17,960,228; total receipts this day, $7,286,981; total receipts this month, $47,850,272; total receipts this year, $567,452,650; total expenditures this day, $597,966; total expenditures this month, $35,937,000; total expenditures this year, $567,452,650; balance, $29,732,721; deposits in national banks, $39,206,274.

STOCK MARKETS IN JUNE.

The stock market in June underwent a complete change from extreme dullness to normal activity, and from considerable depression without any decided loss in values, to buoyancy and a sharp advance. In the early part of the month sentiment was pretty severely tested. For a week there was the suspense preceding the report of the Frick investigating committee into the affairs of the Equitable Life. This was followed by pronounced dullness, while 21 directors of that corporation were resigning and the state authorities were following up the lead of the Frick committee. When the worst was made known—and it was as bad as expected—the stock market became active and prices started upward, the movement continuing until the recovery ranged from 5 to 17 per cent. Heavy selling for foreign account did not check the movement, and the unfavorable weather in the spring wheat belt, together with advancing prices for grain and cotton, failed to alarm holders of securities. The firmer tendency in money, and the rather unexpected engagement of gold for export were likewise ignored. The market has been described as largely professional, but at the same time it has been broad enough during the closing two weeks of the month to absorb an immense amount of stock if there had been any incentive to sell. The assent of Russia and Japan to consider peace negotiations did not strengthen foreign markets to the extent looked for, because of the development of a revolutionary spirit in Russia, which caused more or less apprehension. There was also the friction between Germany and France over the Moroccan situation, which caused almost as much depression in Paris as any event in the far eastern war.

In Pittsburgh the chief depressing event of the month was the decline in Pittsburgh Coal stocks. This decline followed the announcement that the company had sold all the authorized stock remaining in its treasury, and the sale was listed on the New York exchange. The transaction was construed as meaning that the company no longer had any particular interest in the market for the stock, and in addition, the sale of the treasury stock went just so far in supplying the demand. At the same time it increased the annual dividend requirements, and inasmuch as the bituminous coal trade was known to be unsatisfactory, some uncertainty was aroused as to the ability of the company to maintain the full rate of dividend on the preferred stock. Pittsburgh Oil and Gas was another stock regarding which the same uncertainty existed. The acknowledged competition in the electrical field while it did not threaten existing dividends on Westinghouse Electric, dampened hope of an increased rate, and that stock was depressed. Disappointment was also felt that the rate of dividend on American Sewer Pipe was not increased, and rumors of proposed financiering in connection with National Fire Proofing depressed that stock. The effect of all these influences was to check demand, and in the more important issues prices averaged lower.

The declines in bonds were larger than for a long time, and prices were firm and higher. Bank and trust company shares were dull and barely steady.

Following is a summary of transactions on the Pittsburgh stock exchange for the month of June:

CHURCH DEALS ARE REPORTED

New Jerusalem Congregation Will Sell Allegheny Its Site for $60,000.

GOOD SALE IN BUTLER STREET

The property of the Church of New Jerusalem at the northwest corner of Sandusky and Isabella streets, Allegheny, is booked to change hands shortly for $60,000. During the last six months many offers have been made for the property, which is regarded as one of the best corners for a warehouse site in the lower wards, as it is directly across the street from the Pittsburgh & Western stations. The trustees have steadfastly stuck to their figure of $60,000, and it said that at a recent congregational meeting it was voted to sell at this price and the deal may be closed in a few days. The lot is 60x100 feet, which makes the price figure at $1,000 a foot for the Sandusky street frontage. The church is an old frame structure, one of the landmarks of this part of Allegheny, and will be replaced by a modern structure on a better site if this property is sold.

The deal for the Oakland Baptist church property in Fifth avenue, opposite 61st street, has been called off. Nearly three months ago Charles L. Young, the Fifth avenue druggist, arranged to buy the property for $52,000 through the agency of A. F. Noah. He supposed he was getting 34 feet of ground, but when the deed was made out it was found that the lot had only 31 feet frontage. This caused Mr. Young to retract his offer and the property is on the market again.

The report that a sale had been effected of the Second Methodist Protestant church in Fifth avenue near Market street, which was current yesterday, is incorrect. The property is on the market, but an official of the church said last night that there is no deal on for the lot at present.

Nearly Double Last June's Total.

June rolled up a total of realty deals almost twice as large as that of June, 1904, according to the record of the city registrar's office made public yesterday. There were 575 deeds registered, amounting to $1,288,900, as compared with a total of $4,562,000 in June of last year. The gain is attributable to the closing of several sales of large downtown properties. The list of house sales is noticeably smaller than last summer, and there have been no more average sized business properties sold in months. In both May and June the amount of dealing for downtown properties was something that caused much comment, especially as it seems likely to continue well down into the heated months. In May 611 deeds were registered, totaling $8,293,300, which is one of the largest totals ever made in that month. If any one thing can be looked upon as disappointing in the realty market it is that there are fewer sales of houses ranging in value from $3,000 to $10,000 than in the last two years. Residence properties are seen at their best at this season and this lack of sales in offices where the brokers pay special attention to the marketing of such properties is hard to account for.

Big Deal for Vine Street.

It is reported that the Aronson-Friedman Company has sold to I. Guckenheimer the Imperial laundry site in Vine street, Eleventh ward, for $40,000. The property is 90x70 feet, extending back to Our alley, and is improved with a four-story building which is under lease to the Imperial Laundry Company for five years at $2,000 a year. The property belongs to Attorney H. W. Klekadon and is said to have been given in exchange for the Guckenheimer house in Western avenue, Allegheny, which was sold recently by the same brokers for $35,000.

Through the office of Joseph M. Dixon, Abraham Rubinovits and C. Levy sold to George W. Hartman 4520-4528 Butler street, at the corner of Forty-fourth street, for $24,500. The lot is 124x100 feet, extending back to an alley.

John Sands has sold to a local investor 20x100 feet, with a brick store and dwelling, on the north side of Penn avenue, near Sixteenth street, for $17,000, or $850 a front foot. The lot runs back to Mulberry alley.

C. E. Clapp has sold to Taylor Alderdice his residence property at Murray Hill and Wilkins avenues, Twenty-second ward, for $50,000. The residence is a very handsome brick and shingle house of 14 rooms and stands near the center of a plot facing 254 feet in Murray Hill avenue and 172 feet in Wilkins avenue. There is a good stable on the property. The buyer will occupy the place as a home.

Good Lot Attractions Today.

Two big lot sales are scheduled for today. The Freehold Real Estate Company will have a force of at least 20 salesmen on its new Brookline plan in West Liberty, where sales have been made the past week with a most encouraging regularity. The company now has 384 open and terms working on the property, and since June 15 they have accomplished wonders in making streets and putting in sewers. The through line from the city to the company's office has carried out hundreds of people every day to see the development that is going on at a cost of hundreds of thousands of dollars, and the natural beauty of the spot has encouraged a large proportion of them to come back and make purchases. No lot plan put on near Pittsburgh was ever backed by more substantial interests or will be put in better shape for building. With the help of an immense project which has not been announced, this property in two years is bound to be a wonder in the way of building development.

The other sale will be on the old Sherman plan at Swissvale, which Borland & Waddell bought some time ago. Since getting the property they have had a large force of men and teams completing the grading of the streets and laying sewers and water mains. The lots that are not improved are now in the best of shape for building and at the opening sale yesterday there was a big crowd present from the towns up the Monongahela and Turtle Creek valleys, as well as from the city. The property is naturally the center of a big population employed in the steel mills and the Westinghouse works, and it can now be reached in easy time with 5-cent car fare from the Pittsburgh & Western stations. The sale will be considerable of a novelty, as, in addition to 150 vacant lots, 47 houses will be offered for sale on easy terms.

Got a Good Bargain.

Allegheny: The Real Estate Savings and Trust Company sold for Henry J. Payne to Charles Dunbar two brick houses and a stable on 40x149 feet at South avenue and Rogers street, First ward, Allegheny, for $8,000. The property, which runs back to St. Clair street, is regarded as the cheapest buy that has been made in that neighborhood for some time, as it rents for $64 a month.

Chatham street: It develops that M. Tapolsky & Son are the buyers of the Kelly holdings at 58 Chatham street, which were sold recently by the Aronson Realty Company for $10,000. The lot is 20x109 feet with an eight-room brick house.

Summit park: Hack, Heile & Daschbach sold for the Summit Park Land Company to Joseph M. Jones lot 218, 100x200 feet, at Liberty avenue and Center street, Summit park, for $325. The same buyer secured lot 143, 50x140 feet, in Library avenue, for $375.

Jane street: Alpine Minton sold to the Phillips Mine and Mill Company an improved lot, 30x125 feet, in Jane street, Twenty-fifth ward, for $7,500.

Monticello street: The Pittsburgh Trust Company sold to R. J. Lutz 22.5x93 feet in Monticello street, Twenty-first ward, for $1,200.

Building permits were issued in Allegheny yesterday to W. J. Langhit for a two-story brick store and dwelling house in Bailey street near California avenue to cost $5,200; Joseph Dertrick two-story brick veneer dwelling Rhyne street, $3,200; Joseph Sobeck two-story brick dwelling, Forsythe street, $3,000.

The Wool Market.

BOSTON, June 30.—The Boston Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow of the wool market: A steady business is being done by the smaller mills, the larger ones having bought sufficient supplies for some time. Thus the market is comparatively quiet, but still strong. New territory wools, as well as foreign, have moved while pulled have been inactive, owing to lack of stocks. Prices in the fleece states remain on their high basis. The markets abroad are strong and rising, with every condition in favor of higher values at the London sales, which open July 4. English wools are of extreme prices, and growers are determined in their demand. The shipments of wool from Boston to date from December 29, 1904, according to the same authority, are 124,175,548 lbs., against 102,113,895 lbs. at the same time last year. The receipts to date are 169,757,134 lbs., against 165,103,844 lbs. for the same period last year.

OLD POTATOES CANNOT FIND SALE FOR FREIGHT

Tubers of 1904 Have Been Crowded Out and Will Not Bring Transportation Cost.

Old potatoes are the feature of the market just now, chiefly because they cannot be sold. This week will practically wind them up. A carload received yesterday could scarcely be sold, even as low as 5 cents a bushel. They will not bring the cost of the freight and no more will be shipped in. The store price is marked at 20c and 25c and the track figure is quoted at 10c and 15c, but these will be shaded generously. The 1904 potato is no longer in it.

Several items in the green goods and produce list changed prices yesterday, but none of them were of much importance. Cabbage is in little demand. New potatoes are holding firm, chiefly because of the fact that old potatoes are no longer a competitor. There are plenty of new potatoes and the home raised stock will be in the market now in plenty in another week or two.

Butter is firm and dealers believe a slight advance will be recorded by the Elgin board next week. Cheese is also in firm condition, while eggs are weak at 18 cents.

Groceries are firm in all lines. Flour is expected to advance today and sugar looks like another break. Sugar has grown very weak the past week and fruit is slack. Trade in flour improved some, but it was chiefly in filling depleted stocks.

HAY AND GRAIN.

Receipts yesterday were: Pennsylvania, 14 cars oats, 4 cars food, 4 cars corn, 5 cars hay, Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, 3 cars oats, 2 cars hay, Baltimore & Ohio, 2 cars oats, 4 cars hay, 1 car straw.

The hay and grain market was firm in all lines yesterday. Hay trade shows some improvement. Grain is much stronger and prices are expected to make still further advances. Millfeed is slow and straw is strong. Light receipts favoring helped make the local market very firm.

MARKET STILL HOLDS STRENGTH IN WHEAT

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, June 30.—Predictions of widespread wet weather made a strong market here today in wheat. Disorders in Russia emphasized the upward trend of prices. At the close the September delivery was up 1½@1¾c. Corn, oats and provisions are practically unchanged.

Notwithstanding higher prices at Liverpool, the wheat market here opened rather easy. July being off ⅛@¼c at 81½@82c. September was unchanged to ⅛c lower at 84@84⅛c. One cause of the easier tone was clear weather in the northwest. Temporarily, shipment was inclined to bearishness, despite the heavy rains in Kansas. There was, however, no great selling pressure. Toward the end of the day buyers became more developed and firmer undertone. At trading progressed, sentiment rapidly became decidedly bullish. The advance was started by buying brought out by an official forecast for rain throughout the greater part of the wheat belt in the United States. Demand was augmented by damage reports from the northwest, one report from Minneapolis stating that in some sections of Minnesota the fields are brown with rust. Another factor that helped to stimulate demand for wheat here was the unsettled condition of affairs in Russia. September advanced to 84½c. A slight reaction resulted from profit-taking, but the tone of the market at the close was strong. Final quotations on September were at 83½@84c. July was up 1¾c at 82½c. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 55,000 bushels. Exports for the week, as shown by Bradstreets, were 756,000 bushels. Primary receipts were 221,000 bushels, compared with 262,000 bushels a year ago. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 165 cars, against 169 cars last week and 236 cars a year ago.

Influenced by lower prices at Liverpool, the corn market was rather weak early in the session. Conditions in the corn belt in the United States were much more favorable for the growing crop, the temperature being considerably higher. This had a weakening effect at the start. Later reports of very light acceptances strengthened values. The failure of wheat prices to rule firmly here, shorts and commission houses were active buyers during the last hour. The market closed firm at about the highest point of the day. September opened unchanged to ⅛c lower at 54@54⅛c, sold up to 54⅝c and closed at 54¼@54⅝c. July ranged between 54⅝c and 55½@55¾c and closed with a gain of ⅝c. Options main feature without change with 177 of contract grade.

Despite the strength of wheat the oats market closed barely steady, liberal profit-taking late in the session being the weakening influence. September opened unchanged to ⅛c lower at 31¼@31⅜c, sold up to 31¾c and closed at 31½c. July ranged between 32¼c and 32¾c, and closed at 32½c, a loss of ⅛c. Local receipts were 161 cars.

Trading in provisions was extremely quiet. Sentiment was rather bearish the greater part of the day owing to a five-cent decline in the price of live hogs.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 4 cars; corn, 377 cars; oats, 139 cars; hogs, 17,000 head.

RAISES PROTEST AGAINST NOISE

CAR SITUATION IS GOOD

At the suggestion of a well-known Pennsylvania system operating man, a movement will be started for betterment in service that will prove a boon to the thousands of travelers upon the railroads at night. In his travels about the country upon various roads this officer found that there is invariably a series of awakening points along the roads. These are principally at the terminals, where the train inspectors must look after their work, and where there is always more or less noise. That much of this noise is unnecessary is patent to anyone who has been observant of the reasons for it. Naturally there must be some coupling and switching of trains within the terminal, and thus the engine bells are kept ringing almost the whole time. Then the employes seemingly must practice voice culture, or must stand talking just outside the sleeping car or reclining car or coach where the weary travelers are endeavoring to get sleep enough to tide them over the morrow. Sometimes there must be a loud clanging of the dining room gong which, mingled with the noise of many voices, the roar of baggage truck wheels over the platforms and the ringing of the engine bells or the hissing of steam, is enough to make anyone cross.

"Much of the noise of the terminals at night can be done away with," said this officer yesterday, in speaking of the matter. "I have been traveling enough to observe that the noise, or about nine-tenths of it, is unnecessary. I have observed that it is not so much at the larger terminal points, such as Pittsburgh or Columbus or Philadelphia or Washington, but at the smaller places, like Altoona, Harrisburg, Cumberland and other such places that the most noise is made. I have been awakened many times, not by the stopping of the train, but by some fellow yelling just outside the car, as if everything on the road depended on his being heard. This could and should be stopped. At the same time there might be less bell ringing from the engines. There are always plenty of employes to watch the few people who are allowed about the platforms. It would also be well for the dining room people to clang their gongs more discreetly and for baggage and hotel draymen and hackmen to be kept further from the train. This may seem a simple matter, but it is an important one and should have attention from all roads."

Car Situation Is Good.

Transportation officers of the Pittsburgh lines said yesterday that the car situation is good just now, there being plenty of coal cars and an abundance of coke and box cars. While all of the coal cars are kept busy at the mines in this district, it was stated that there is not a dearth of equipment for mine operations at any point. Traffic movements are heavy on all lines. Some of the local lines are now receiving cars ordered several months ago. The Pittsburgh & Lake Erie is receiving daily about 25 new gondolas of 100,000 pounds capacity. These are part of the order for 2,000 gondolas placed some months ago with the Pressed Steel Car Company. The Baltimore & Ohio will soon be receiving the first lots of the 10,000 cars ordered recently, while the Pennsylvania system's freight equipment will receive an impetus of several thousand cars by fall, and the Wabash lines will also have almost 3,000 new cars added. This, with the new motive power to be added, will insure the handling of freight from this district with dispatch.

More Dining Cars.

Announcement was made by the Pennsylvania lines yesterday that two more of the handsome dining cars to be operated under the direction of Superintendent of Dining Car Service E. W. Westlake will soon be delivered by the manufacturers. One of these cars will be placed in the Pennsylvania special and the other will be placed in regular service on the other first-class trains. The Pennsylvania limited dining car service is the only dining service on the Pennsylvania lines that is not operated directly by Superintendent Westlake. The Pennsylvania lines now have as fine a lot of dining car equipment as can be found on any road. Within two years there have been 10 dining cars and six cafe cars added.

Pennsylvania M. of W. Changes.

Several changes of importance in the maintenance of way department of the Pennsylvania railroad were announced yesterday, to become effective today. A. B. Cuthbert, who succeeded J. H. Gumbes as assistant engineer of the Monongahela division, with headquarters at Ormsby, a few months ago, is appointed assistant engineer of the Philadelphia division, and E. R. Wiseman, assistant engineer of the Philadelphia & Erie at Williamsport, succeeds him on the local division. C. C. Koone is transferred as supervisor from Tyrone to the Pittsburgh division, and F. C. Putney is also placed in a similar position on this division. J. B. Hutchinson, Jr., who has been supervisor of the Allegheny end of the West Penn, C. R. McMillan of Johnstown and C. A. Pfalsgraff are appointed supervisors on the Middle division. P. L. Reed succeeds Mr. Hutchinson at Freeport. A. E. Preble is appointed supervisor on the Philadelphia division.

B. & O. Surgeons End Conference.

The Baltimore & Ohio Association of Railway Surgeons closed the sixteenth annual meeting yesterday with an election of officers, which resulted as follows: President, Dr. J. F. Thompson, Garret, Ind.; first vice president, Dr. E. S. Montgomery, Pittsburgh; second vice president, Dr. John E. Russell, Mt. Vernon, O.; secretary and treasurer, Dr. J. H. Kennedy, Aberdeen, Md. Philadelphia will be the next place of meeting. As a token of appreciation for having provided what was deemed the most important and pleasant meeting ever held, the association presented to Drs. Montgomery, W. F. Donaldson and W. H. Cameron, respectively, chairmen of the arrangements, registration and program committees, with diamond scarf pins, the presentation being made by the retiring president, Dr. H. S. Hedges. One of the most significant actions of the association was the appointment of a committee to confer with the railroad officers upon the matter of providing surgical operating rooms at terminal points. Thirty-three new members were added.

Fine Berth for Walmsley.

Word was received in Pittsburgh yesterday of the promotion of A. B. Walmsley from commercial agent of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad at Buffalo to general western agent at Chicago. Mr. Walmsley is well known in Pittsburgh, being one of the most active out-of-town members of the Tariff club of Pittsburgh, and coming to Pittsburgh often in connection with the tariff interests of his road. He succeeds G. E. Hustis, who resigned to become auditor of disbursements of the Michigan Central, and is succeeded by R. W. Smith, traveling freight agent at Boston.

Railroad Notes.

The carrying of emigrants on train No. 29, the fast St. Louis express of the Panhandle, has been ordered prohibited.

S. S. Bridges, commercial agent of the Norfolk & Western, has returned from the traffic family meeting of his company at Norfolk.

Several of the new stations of the Baltimore & Ohio have been placed in service, that at Rockwood having been placed in use about three weeks ago. There are to be 16 new stations on the local division.

After spending the day in a pleasant and profitable trip over the Pittsburgh terminals, the Union Line bureau and Pennsylvania system officers and agents left last evening for their respective headquarters.

C. H. Jackson, commercial agent of the Big Four, has received notice of the annual meeting of the Kanawha Dispatch Routes, Blue Ridge Dispatch and Chesapeake & Ohio railway traffic men at White Sulphur Springs July 20 and 21.

The Pennsylvania has completed surveys and plans for the building of a freight loop around Baltimore to avoid running the heavy freight traffic through the city, but the board will not likely authorize the construction before the September meeting.

M. C. Byers, formerly a Baltimore & Ohio system man, but latterly engineer of maintenance of way of the third district of the Frisco system, has been advanced to the general offices of the company in St. Louis, where he will do special work in connection with the maintenance department, reporting to the second vice president and general manager.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Thompson, who were married at Cumberland Thursday evening, passed through Pittsburgh in a private car on Baltimore & Ohio train No. 9 yesterday morning. They will visit the Yellowstone National park, Colorado and other western points before returning to Wheeling, where Mr. Thompson is superintendent of the Baltimore & Ohio. He was formerly division engineer here.

Francis McCullagh, a newspaper man, captured by the Japanese at the battle of Mukden, tells all about it in The Sunday Gazette's war supplement tomorrow. His interview with Gen. Kuroki is interesting.

RECEIVER SAVES CREDITORS' CASH

Trust Company Completes Railroad After It Had Become Bankrupt.

CANNOT USE CRIMINAL COURT

An order was issued by Judge Buffington in the United States court yesterday which insures the completion of the Wetzel & Tyler Railway Company, bankrupt, and will result in a nice profit to creditors on holdings that were bought some months ago to be had bargains. In February, 1904, the railway company was declared bankrupt, and the Guarantee Title and Trust Company of Pittsburgh was appointed receiver.

All that time the road was only partially completed, and had it been disposed of then the creditors would have lost nearly everything. The receiver decided, however, to complete the road, and receiver's certificates to the amount of $20,000 were permitted to be issued by the court.

The railway is a traction line running from Slatersville to New Martinsville, W. Va., and has been in trouble from the start about getting a franchise to enter the latter town. The franchise was procured finally. Judge Buffington's order yesterday gives the receiver the right to issue $5,000 worth more of receiver's certificates, enough to complete the line, which, it is declared, will have a good earning power when completed.

Not a Collecting Agency.

"I want people to understand once and for all that this court cannot be used as a collecting agency," remarked Judge Kennedy in criminal court, when an effort was made to have a case in which John Abel was charged with larceny nol prossed. John O'Hara, the prosecutor, and an attorney appeared with Abel before the court to have the case settled. O'Hara had sold Abel a diamond and claimed Abel had kept the diamond. O'Hara admitted to Judge Kennedy that he had entered the suit against Abel to recover the diamond or the purchase money. Judge Kennedy became incensed at O'Hara's statement, and after telling him that the criminal court could not be used as a collecting agency, said that the common pleas court was the proper place for such suits, refused to nol pros the case.

R. E. Calhoun of Oakland was tried before Judge Kennedy on a charge of larceny made by Dr. J. B. Reed of Crafton. The case grew out of a horse trade, in which the trotters "Pedlow" and "McKinley" figured. The former horse, owned by Dr. Reed, was traded to Calhoun for McKinley. Calhoun it was charged, becoming dissatisfied with the trade, returned "Pedlow" to Dr. Reed's stable at Crafton late one night and took away his own horse, "McKinley," without Dr. Reed's knowledge. The case was on trial all day and the jury was still out when court adjourned.

McKees Rocks Officers Acquitted.

Chief of Police Thomas J. Grogan, Policeman John Bryan and Edward Rider of McKees Rocks and P. L. & L. Railroad Detectives E. E. Crist, A. W. Stewart and J. L. Parent were acquitted on a charge of felonious assault. The case grew out of the Schoenville riot, during which a Hungarian was shot.

Other cases were: Annie Maywalt, larceny, pleaded guilty, sentence suspended; George Washington, keeping a gambling house, acquitted.

John Fisher brought suit against Frank Joy and Thomas J. Dempsey, through Attorneys L. K. Guiler and J. J. McAlliney, asking $25,000 damages for slander. Joy is a detective and Fisher is connected with the Shepherd Manufacturing Company. He alleges the two defendants conspired to injure his reputation and character by circulating reports that he was dishonest and by threats to sue him.

A bill in equity was filed by Joseph Hamilton, treasurer of the board of trustees of the Methodist Episcopal church, in behalf of the Liberty Street mission, against James W. McFarland, a former treasurer of the church. It is asked that he be compelled to turn over the books and papers of the church and to render an accounting.

The case of Jonathan Clarke Sons Company against the city of Pittsburgh over the Highland reservoir contract was resumed. Engineer Trimble, who, under former Public Works Director J. Guy McClelland, was the superintending engineer in charge of reservoir work during the period when Keeling & Ridge were at work on the job, was on the stand most of the day. His testimony was technical.

Claim Wires Are Too Close.

A preliminary injunction was granted in the equity suit of the Turtle Creek Electric Light, Heat and Power company and the Monongahela Light Company against the Rose Hill Electric Company, restraining the Rose Hill Company from transmitting electricity through its wires until further order of court. The plaintiffs allege that the defendant company recently erected poles and strung wires in the borough of Turtle Creek so close to the wires of the Turtle Electric Light, Heat and Power Company's wires that the transmission of the current through plaintiff's wires was interfered with.

Decrees in divorce were granted as follows: Clara Stockwell from Dr. Benjamin F. Stockwell on grounds of desertion; and Margaret B. Zeck from Robert A. Zeck, on grounds of indignities.

Next week's trial list contains the names of the defendants in several important cases, principally those of Director Thomas B. Scandrett and Superintendent of Police Melvin H. WILL BUNCH QUESTIONS.

Attorneys in Shuff Case to Consult Court Only When Absolutely Necessary.

Several tilts occurred yesterday morning in the taking of testimony before Commissioner Gamble in the case of John L. Shuff against the Philadelphia Company, the Pittsburgh Railways Company and the Grant & Liberty Street Railway Company. Attorneys for the railway interests objected to several questions asked by the attorneys for the Voters' Civic league.

On Thursday it became evident that the frequent interruptions of the court's business before Judge Buffington was annoying to the latter. So the attorneys decided to bunch their questions when going into open court to ask for a ruling, instead of following the previous custom of rushing to Judge Buffington for a decision on some point every time the attorneys for one side or the other get into an argument over the propounding of some question.

All of the interested attorneys were present excepting W. B. Rodgers, W. B. Carsen, secretary of the Philadelphia Company, and Wm. Whitlinger, assistant secretary and real estate agent, were both on the stand. The latter's admissions brought out the fact that John L. Shuff, the plaintiff, will be required to return to this city and again take the stand. He is expected to arrive in Pittsburgh this morning, when the case will be resumed.

THE THREE RIVERS

The stage of water at Davis island dam at 9 last night was 5.2 feet and the river was rising slowly.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.)

CINCINNATI, O., June 30.—(Special.)—At 6 p. m. today the Ohio river at Cincinnati was 22.3 feet and falling. Today's departures of packets from the port of Cincinnati were: Tacoma, Pomeroy; Courier, Maysville, and City of Cincinnati, Louisville. The conference which has been in session here for the past two days adjourned this morning. Today's arrivals of towboats from above with coal were: J. B. Lewis and convoy from Kanawha and the Iron Age from Pittsburgh with coal. These boats did not arrive until late in the afternoon, having been delayed by a fog for eight hours. Passed up from Louisville for Pittsburgh, John A. Wood, Mariner, Exporter, Boaz, Tom Rees No. 2 and Henry Lourey. All of these boats will not be able to get into Pittsburgh harbor on account of the low water and will be forced to lay up along the bank until a rise comes. Clear and pleasant.

PACKETS ARE ALL MOVING.

Low Water Has Not Interfered With Passenger Traffic Yet.

Low water has not interfered with passenger traffic on the rivers yet. Three packets got in yesterday—the Greenland, from Charleston; Morena, from Zanesville, and Columbia, from Morgantown. They left yesterday afternoon for their respective ports.

The Virginia will arrive this morning from Cincinnati and leave this evening. It is doubtful if she will be able to come above Rochester, owing to low water, but passengers will be transferred from that point.

Several boats of the Five Coal Company are laid up at Sewickley with tows of empties, unable to get through the trap. The Monongahela river has become so low that coal cannot be moved from the upper pools to the local harbor, and it is doubtful if there will be a big coal run when the next rise does come, as it will take a day or two to get the coal down. There is comparatively little in the harbor.

James Rees & Sons Co. have closed a contract with the Arkansaw River Packet Company to build a new boat, to be known as the S. S. Brown, in honor of Capt. Sam Brown of this city. The boat will be 220 feet long, 44 feet beam and will have engines of 1,200 horsepower. She will operate between Memphis and Vicksburg.

Percy Adams, a draughtsman from the United States treasury department, will arrive in Pittsburgh this morning to inspect the site for the new marine hospital.

Chidsey of Easton, were appointed by Secretary Brown today to recopy the old surveys in the internal affairs department at a salary of $1,400 each. These appointments were made by authority of a law passed by the legislature of 1901. Africa is a son of the late J. Simpson Africa of Huntingdon, a former secretary of internal affairs, and was formerly a Democrat. Chidsey is a son of ex-Representative Chidsey, of Easton.

Xenia Sewers Flushed With Beer.

XENIA, O., June 30.—The sewers of Xenia were today flushed with hundreds of barrels of beer, notwithstanding this is a "dry" town and hydrant water plentiful. It was caused by the visit of a government inspector from Dayton to the Brinkle & Reading brewery, where was formerly manufactured "Bishop beer," a dry town beverage, which firm refused to pay the government tax.

Tons of Girders Fall.

Several tons of girders and beams yesterday dropped from the derrick at the construction of the annex of the Frick building, in Diamond street, and fell 40 feet to the bottom of the excavation. No one was injured. The boom of the derrick worked out of the connection, which caused the load to fall.

TOLEDO AERONAUT'S TRIP MEETS WITH SUCCESS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

TOLEDO, O., June 30.—The most remarkable flight ever made in an airship was performed today by A. R. Knabenshue, who sailed through the air a distance of three miles, landing on top of a 10-story office building in 28 minutes from the time of starting, and then returned to the spot from which he started.

When he left the starting place he directed the ship straight for the city. When half the distance had been covered an upper current of air carried him up to a distance of 8,000 feet. But the nervy director did not lose control of his machine for a moment, and steered it directly for the heart of the city.

Business was entirely suspended and the entire population gathered in the streets to watch the course of the ship. When directly over the skyscraper Knabenshue directed his craft downward and alighted on the building with the ease and grace of a bird. A round of applause greeted the daring navigator, who was less excited than any of the spectators.

After examining the ship to see that it was all right and receiving the congratulations of his friends, Knabenshue started on his trip back, and, going with the wind, he made the return voyage in 15 minutes. He declares that his present ship is far superior to others he has navigated; that it is easier managed and that he has solved the problem of aerial navigation.

PATRIOTIC SERVICES.

Clergymen Will Draw Sermons from Independence Day.

Appropriate to the advent of Independence day, many pastors will tomorrow devote either a morning or evening service in commemoration of the day. Many congregations have announced Children's day exercises which will in measure also serve to celebrate the anniversary of the birth of the nation.

In Aspinwall all churches will unite in a patriotic service in the Aspinwall Lutheran church, while United Presbyterian congregations of Allegheny will unite in service in the Fifth church, Irwin avenue and Filmore street. Both services will be held in the evening.

The Rev. Dr. J. T. McCrory will celebrate the 25th anniversary of his pastorate tomorrow morning when he will preach on "The Last Sermon of Twenty-five Years." A program of special addresses and music has also been provided.

A MAGNIFICENT SHOWING.

The Pittsburgh Agency of the Equitable Life Closes an Exceedingly Successful Six Months.

All the policy-holders and many others interested in the Equitable Life will be glad to know that the Pittsburgh agency has just closed a very gratifying six months' business.

Figures, very carefully compiled by Manager Edward A. Woods, show that from January 1 to July 1, 1905, 2,195 applications for assurance were received by the Pittsburgh agency and $5,972,712 of new assurance sold.

This is the very strongest evidence that despite the recent disturbances and reorganization of the society the people of Western Pennsylvania have unlimited confidence in the strength of the Equitable and regard an assurance contract with it as being an absolutely safe and desirable investment.

And truly, it is a confidence that is well placed. With assets of $400,000,000 and a surplus fund exceeding $80,000,000, every dollar of which is securely invested, the great Equitable society has well earned its title of "Strongest in the World."

TWO HAVE LUCKY FALLS.

Man Drops from Third Story, and Boy Rolls Down Cliff.

A man supposed to be John Daily fell out of a third-story window at the rear of No. 429 Smithfield street yesterday. He was removed to the Homeopathic hospital, where it was found he was practically uninjured. His fall was broken by landing on a roof, midway, from which he rolled to the ground. He was intoxicated and was stepping on the ledge when he dropped out.

David, the 10-year-old son of Capt. Henry Soucer, a well-known riverman, yesterday rolled 100 feet down the Duquesne heights embankment and lodged in a tree. He was uninjured. The neighbors who saw him fall pulled fire alarm box 423, thinking the firemen could probably rescue him. When the firemen arrived the boy had recovered from the shock and was climbing back.

Unexpectedly Gains Liberty.

Martin Cox, a Canonsburg coal miner, who was in jail under a charge of passing counterfeit money, unexpectedly secured his liberty yesterday morning and departed for home. He was up before United States Commissioner Lindsey on Thursday and remanded for trial at Erie. D. Schaefer, a local business man, heard of the case and inquired as to the status of Commissioner Lindsey. After learning the facts he went to the jail, talked with Cox and then went on his bail bond in the sum of $500. Cox is said to have passed a counterfeit half dollar, but it is suspected he was a dupe of others.

MUCH INTEREST IN WORD HUNT

The Gazette's New Contest Will Cause Thorough Reading of Sunday Advertisements.

SOME INQUIRIES ANSWERED

Widespread interest is being manifested in the word hunt which will be instituted by The Gazette next Sunday, judging by the numerous inquiries which have reached this office. There is certain to be a thorough reading of Gazette advertisements in consequence, and there will be close competition for the $50, which is to be divided among the 13 winners, the awards ranging from $1 to $15 each.

In another column will be found a full explanation of the details of the contest. Readers of The Gazette will be allowed to select four words from the advertisements appearing in next Sunday's issue. Each letter will have a value relative to its position in the alphabet. A will count one, B two, C three and so on, Y counting 25 and Z, 26. The only limitation is that no letter can be used more than a total of four times in the four words.

The answers must be sent to The Gazette office not later than noon Thursday morning. A special blank will be printed in The Sunday Gazette and this must be used in sending answers. The blanks should be sent at the earliest possible moment for the reason that in case of a tie for a prize, the contestant whose letter reaches the office first will be entitled to the award. A reader of The Gazette has made the following inquiries:

1. May the same word be used more than once if so found?

2. May proper names be considered?

In reply to this inquirer, and to others who may be interested, it may be said that the same word may be used as often as found in the advertisements, but of course, not exceeding four times. Proper names, if found in the advertisements, may be used the same as any other word.

Must on Taking Near-Cut.

Three prisoners at No. 7 police station yesterday were George Davenport, John Doyle and Garrett Carter, who live in the vicinity of the Brownsville road. They were at a wedding Thursday night and started home late. The cars were not running when they reached the Mt. Washington tunnel, and they were stopped by the watchman who says they wanted to walk through. The watchman claimed he had been struck and the men were fined $10 and costs or 20 days at the workhouse.

Mrs. Magee Sends $1,000.

Mrs. Enoch Rauh yesterday received from Mrs. Christopehr L. Magee, now living in Rome, a draft for $1,000, with the request that it be applied to the Gusky orphanage fund as a memorial to her husband. Mrs. Rauh recently wrote Mrs. Magee setting forth the needs of the orphanage. She says Mrs. Magee's tender is but one of many which she has recently made as memorials to her husband.

Find Their Building Burning.

When employes of the Daniel W. Zeber Company, dealers in bar supplies at 967 Liberty avenue, arrived for work yesterday morning they found the building in flames and the firemen hard at work. The fire was discovered soon after 7 o'clock. It started on the fifth floor and its origin is unknown. The loss was principally from water.

Chauffeur's Reckless Act.

NEW YORK, June 30.—Frank C. Foote, a chauffeur for James J. Hill of the Northern Pacific railroad, while running an automobile today ran over and fatally injured an unknown woman. The woman died half an hour later. Foote was remanded to the custody of the coroner.

FAVORS "BUSINESS" SWORD.

The President Says Army and Navy Swords Should Be Made to Cut and Thrust—Recommendations Made.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—"If our army officers carry any sword, they ought to carry a sword that they can cut and thrust with," was the comment which President Roosevelt made in a letter to the authorities of the war department some months ago. Today a voluminous report which discusses every phase of the sword problem was received by Secretary Taft. The comment of the president resulted in the appointment of a committee from the personnel of the general staff. Several recommendations are made concerning the length the sword should have.

The sentiment of the army, the report states, is largely against the use of any sword by officers in the field. Experience in the Philippines has led to the replacement of the sword by the revolver. The recommendations of the committee are that the saber adopted for the army shall be both a thrusting and a cutting weapon.
